W. H. Aubel of 20 Smithfield street says "I can't see why someone has not see that 'pile of scrap iron' that is loctaed at the west end of our Public Square, and make some good use of it. I believe we were informed at the close of the last war that the gun was captured from the Germany army in France, and that our government was presenting them to some cities. New Castle offered to receive one. I think that since the government is seeking for every pound of scrap available, that now is the time to send it back to the Germans in a definite direct way. As to the piece of artillery being an ornament on our Public Square, I am willing to leave it to others to judge."

Skunks, and not the two-legged kind, are playing havoc with North Hill lawns in some sections, Pa Newc has noted. Grubs are a tasty delicacy with the odorous kittens, and they dig up lawns and fields for these lucious meals, much to the detriment of the greensward.

Pa Newc noted some abandoned steel spans across small streams on the route of the old Sharon interurban line, not far from this city, recently that would make a good contribution to the scrap metal drive now in progress. Scrap metal of every kind is vitally needed for the war effort.

Bitter Hand-To-Hand Fighting Is Reported In Moscow War Bulletins

NAZI ATTACKS ARE AGAIN REPELLED

Stalin Calls On His Red Air Force To Emulate British In Defense Of 1940

By JAMES E. BROWN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Sept. 17. — In bitter hand-to-hand fighting, the desperate defenders of Stalingrad have repelled tank-led German infantry attacks in the northwestern outskirts of the city, the Soviet high command announced today.

Nazi Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock unleashed tank and infantry attacks southwest of the city but these were repelled by the Russians, the communique disclosed.

As the unremitting battle for Stalingrad raged with increasing fury, Josef Stalin called on the Red Air Force to emulate the British Royal Air Force and save Stalingard in the same manner that the RAF saved Great Britain in 1940.

The Moscow radio broadcast a dramatic account of the battle northwest of Stalingrad's outskirts, where the Germans were said to be suffering enormous losses.

Skip-stop system for city buses will become effective October 1, according to a resolution adopted by council in city hall today. The resolution, introduced by Safety Director D. O. Davies stated that the city had no objection to the system being tried out.

The resolution was introduced after City ODT Co-Ordinator and also General Manager of the S. V. T. company, Thomas C. Moore said the company desired to have the Organization and Defense transportation release to the company two buses which already had been ordered.

He said that the ODT requires that the company show what has been accomplished to solve the transportation problem. He said one industry here already has placed

Enemy Alien Raids Are Made

(International News Service)

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 17.—Federal agents swooped down on 64 homes and hangouts of enemy aliens in 31 northern and central New Jersey communities last night and early today, taking an undisclosed number of prisoners.

E. E. Conroy, F.B.I. agent in charge of the Newark office, said the raids were directed at unfriendly Italian aliens and were made with the help of local police.

A large amount of contraband, including firearms, cameras and short wave radio sets was seized.

One prisoner was arrested while listening to a short wave propaganda broadcast from Rome, Conroy revealed.

Jap Forces Pushing Closer To Moresby; Fighting Increases

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS In Australia, Sept. 17. — Japanese forces driving on the allied base at Port Moresby from the Owen Stanley mountain range apparently have pushed closer to their goal, a communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters disclosed today.

The enemy is exerting "serious pressure" on the defense lines and fighting is raging along a road north of Iorabaiwa which is only 32 miles from Port Moresby, the communique stated.

Iorabaiwa is 13 miles south of Efogi which was last mentioned in communiques as the battle area.

Confusing Action

But the communique said the heavy skirmishing was not developing on a well defined front. Allied and Japanese patrols are both driving ahead and penetrating each other's lines in confused actions on the jungle-clad slopes of the towering mountain ranges.

Tempo of the jungle fighting is steadily increasing, a military spokesman declared.

"Both sides are agressively attacking," he said.

"Full-scale patrol attacks are developing in the no-man's land between Efogi and Iorabaiwa.

"Patrols are pushing ahead aggressively during the last few days, ending the stalemate."

U. S. Army Planes Make Heavy Raid On Japs In Aleutians

ESTIMATE JAPS LOSE 500 MEN

By RICHARD HALLER
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 17.—Two Japanese warships were sunk and 500 casualties were inflicted on the enemy when United States Army planes carried out a heavy raid against Kiska Island in the Aleutians, a communique from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz disclosed today.

The commander-in-chief of the U. S. Pacific fleet revealed in his ninth communique of the war that five Japanese fighter planes were shot down in flames and an enemy four-engined patrol plane burned on the water, while Japanese installations on Kiska were attacked.

The only losses suffered by the United States planes, based in Alaska, were two P-38 type planes which collided in mid-air and the pilots were lost.

(Editor's Note: The communique from Admiral Nimitz said the action took place "this afternoon" and was received in New York last night. A communique was issued by the navy department in Washington Wednesday night disclosing raids were carried out against Kiska on September 4 and September 14. The difference in dates was not immediately explained.)

Council In Favor Of Service To Seventh Ward On All-Night Schedule

After council today had adopted a resolution saying the city had no opposition to a bus skip-stop system here the solons passed a second resolution presented by Safety Director D. O. Davies asking the S. V. T. company to "see what it can do about all night bus service to accommodate railroaders who terminal at Mahoningtown."

General Manager Thomas C. Moore, who was present during the council meeting, requested a copy of the resolution be mailed to him explaining that "before this could be accomplished it would be necessary for the P.U.C. in Harrisburg to grant an extension of service and the latter extension would require approval by the O.D.T."

The B. & O. and other railroad employes recently petitioned the company for better service, alleging that service uptown from Mahoningtown is suspended between 1:30 a. m. and 5 a. m.

Moore pointed out that each trip would require 13 miles operation of

Indications Japan Is Preparing For Action To Aid Hitler's Plans

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Strong indications that Japan is readying its military machine for "cooperation" with Hitler's Wehramacht were seen today in an undated dispatch of the London Daily Mail.

The newspaper quoted General Shunroku Hata, commander-in-chief of Japanese forces in China and one time minister of war, as saying:

"Japan is about to take an important step in cooperation with the European war."

(Editor's Note: Tokyo broadcasts quoted General Hata as saying "Asia in cooperation with Europe is about to take simultaneous action toward realization of a new world order.")

In a dispatch from Chungking, Reuters (British) News agency said that two Japanese divisions are concentrated in Shanghai ready for embarkation but that their destination was not known.

Two Japanese admirals, normally stationed in Berlin, are reported enroute to Turkey, the dispatch said.

It was said that Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, conqueror of Malaya, has been shifted to a new post. Yamashita received the surrender of Singapore and was reported to have replaced Lieut. Gen. Masahaur Homma when the latter's efforts to conquer the Philippines were smashed by General Douglas McArthur.

The Mail's dispatch said that these reports all pointed towards a grand-scale onslaught by the Japanese.

Chungking observers have reported that Japanese forces in China have been withdrawn in many instances for duty in the Kwantung army, stationed along the Manchurian-Siberian border. There have been reports in Chungking that Yamashita has been ordered to Manchukuo to take over command of Japanese plans to attack Siberia.

Fighting Planes Give U.S. Forces Advantage In Battles In Pacific

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

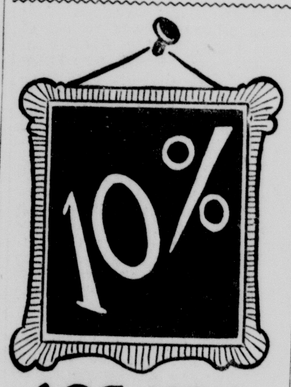

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. —Long range pursuit planes and bombers of all types today appeared to be giving American army, navy and marine forces a definite advantage in offensive and defense actions in widely separated embattled areas in the Aleutians and Solomons where fighting is mounting in intensity.

In the Aleutians, American long range patrol planes and bombers struck a smashing offensive blow against Japanese invaders in the Kiska area while in the Solomons, marine land forces held their positions against the counter-attacking Nipponese.

While fighting largely has been defensive in the Solomons since the Japanese landed reinforcements on Guadacanal, U. S. army, navy and marine aerial units, nevertheless, have been lashing out against Japanese supply lines and outposts in the important Guadacanal area.

Taylor On Way To Vatican Post

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Secretary of State Hull today announced that Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy to the Vatican is returning to his post for a limited time.

Taylor is understood to have arrived in Lisbon, Portugal, and will proceed shortly to Rome. The Italian government has granted him safe conduct to enter Italy and proceed to the Vatican.

There is understood to be no truth whatever in Vichy radio reports that the purpose of Taylor's visit to the Vatican is to discuss the possibility of a European peace settlement with the Pope.

This report is regarded as part of the Vichy peace propaganda movement.

However, there is reason to believe that Taylor's visit represents a special mission on behalf of the president. He also is expected to visit Spain.

Bombing Attacks On Germany Reach New Peak In Past Few Weeks

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Britain smashed at the German industrial Ruhr district last night in a mass raid by 700 to 800 bombers, according to unofficial estimates today.

An official air ministry announcement said 39 planes were lost in the night attack on the manufacturing area which produces more than 50 per cent of the Reich's industrial output.

Pilots, returning from the raid, described it as "effective" and large fires were left burning by the tons of bombs.

Bombings At New Peak

"Bombings of Germany have reached a new peak," said headlines in morning papers reporting the latest raid which was a follow-up of the attacks on Cherbourg and the great Nazi naval base at Wilhelmshaven.

The Daily Telegraph said that eight powerful RAF attacks on German cities in the past two weeks had left seven vital industrial centers "in complete chaos."

"The United Nations are now nearing their goal of continuous bombings of Germany," the Telegraph added.

The loss of 39 planes was the

Fifteen Hurt In New Haven Blast

Explosion In Arms Factory

One-Story Building At Winchester Plant Is Blown To Bits In Night

SIX OF INJURED ARE BADLY HURT

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 17. Fifteen persons, seven of them women, were injured just five minutes before midnight last night when a one-story building at the plant of the Winchester Repeating Arms division of the Western Cartridge company was blown to bits by an explosion which rocked New Haven.

Six of those hurt were said to be in critical condition, one being given little chance to live.

The explosives safety branch of the ordnance department in Chicago announced that sixteen persons had been hurt, seven of them seriously.)

First aid and disaster units rushed to the scene and aided city police and fire departments in rescue work. All of those injured were hospitalized.

The plant is located on Winchester avenue, about a mile from the center of town, and covers a large area. Thousands of persons who were still in the downtown section at the hour of the explosion, rushed to the scene and hampered rescue work. Police lines were finally established to hold the crowds back.

Only one building of the plant was affected, company officials announced and production in other departments continued without interruption.

Authorities began an immediate investigation of the accident, cause of which was undetermined.

few. Bulk of the opposition seemed to hinge on the need for vesting such sweeping power in Washington, even in time of war.

Chairman May T. Norton (D) N. J., of the house labor committee, expressed belief that McNutt's proposal was "decidedly premature".

"I don't think we have reached that stage yet and I would have to know a lot more about it than I do now to favor a program of that nature," Mrs. Norton asserted.

Rep. Ramspeck of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the labor committee, declared that he was opposed to placing "that much power in anyone".

"If it becomes necessary to take a step like that, then I favor going back to the American Legion's old 'universal service' act whereby everybody would automatically be drafted by the army and navy, assigned to their jobs and be paid alike and treated alike," Ramspeck said anese positions and communication lines from their bases at Buna and Gona on the north shore of the island, 150 miles from Port Moresby.

But the terse communique conceded that the enemy has advanced to within 35 to 40 miles from the vital allied base on the southern shore of the jungle island.

In an effort to relieve pressure on the hard-pressed Australian infantrymen defending the mountain battle line, allied bomber squadrons again blasted the enemy base at Buna, attacking landing barges off the beach. Heavy weather prevented full observation of results.

Meantime other allied bombers roared over Rabaul, on New Britain island, and Buka, the Japanese base on the northern end of the Solomon islands, to attack enemy airfields and adjoining dispersal areas.

Battered By Bombers

Numerous fires were started at Buka which was battered by allied medium bombers. Recent communiques have mentioned Douglas B-25s and Hudsons as allied types of medium bombers in operation in the southwest Pacific.

In the area northwest of Australia activity was limited to reconnaissance flights.

Military circles believed the attacks on Rabaul and Buka were planned to relieve pressure on U. S. Marines fighting to hold the bases in the southern end of the Solomons where the Japanese are attempting to recapture their lost positions.

Rabaul and Buka are the most important Japanese bases in that area and both have large airfields.

During the past several weeks allied bombers have repeatedly bombed the enemy's New Britain and Solomon Island bases, and the effectiveness of the raids was revealed in the total lack of Japanese fighter plane resistance to the latest attacks. Today's communique said no enemy interceptor opposition was encountered.

Safety Director Davies declared that in his opinion the railroad men are in defense work and the buses would operate during a "dead time."

Other members of council adopted a similar position.

When Moore pointed out four trips would necessitate 52 miles operation council came back with the assertion that the skip-stop system in effect October 1 would save gas and defense workers had to have means of transportation.

Moore promised to investigate the possibility of securing the service wanted by the railroaders to reach not only the railroads but also their homes between 1:30 a. m. and 5 a. m. when there is no service.

broadcast said. "The Germans, possessed of fanatical rage, are choking in their own blood as they go over the bodies of their own soldiers and over the debris of their own tanks.

"They are being met by a hurricane of fire which is repelling attack after attack.

Fighting in the northwestern outskirts of Stalingrad, where the Russians drove back enemy forces which previously succeeded in driving wedges into their lines, has been sanguinary, front lines dispatches reported.

These reprts said that German and Russian troops are facing each other from opposite sides of streets. Every window has been turned into a firing point and Soviet soldiers are repeatedly venturing forth in an effort to recapture important heights outside the city.

The Russian high command's noon-day communique further reported that Red army troops have captured "considerable booty" in the Mozdok area of the central Caucasus in lashing at enemy troops attempting to push on to the Grozny oil fields.

Fortified lines in one sector of the central front have been captured by Russian troops who succeeded in destroying numerous "fighting positions."

Appeal To Soviet Air Force

The appeal to the Soviet air force by Stalin was carried in an editorial in Red Star the Russian army newspaper. The premier pointed to the heroic fight put up by "so few" RAF planes in smashing mass attacks against England by the Nazi Luftwaffe.

Stalin has issued appeals to his armed forces on other occasions and his statement in the army newspaper added grim emphasis to the desperate situation confronting the untiring defenders of the city named in his honor.

In the fighting in the northwestern outskirts, the Russians succeeded in destroying German tanks and killing scores of enemy infantrymen.

A commentator on the Moscow radio told the Russian people that despite the enemy's enormous losses, the Germans were still pressing forward and "the German advance against the city continues." The commentator said that "ferocious dawn to dusk air battling is raging over the city."

Many Claims Made

(Editor's Note: Various Axis sources offered a wide variety of claims regarding the fighting at Stalingrad and Mozdok. The Rome radio asserted that Russian reinforcements were being brought to Stalingrad by troop-carrying aircraft. The commentator said that "the stubbornest resistance continues."

(The German-controlled Vichy radio claimed the Nazis had penetrated the main Soviet lines north of Mozdok, according to Exchange Telegraph while Reuters (British) news agency reported the Vichy radio claimed that the Nazis east of Elista were "within sight of the Caspian.")

The noon-day communique revealing that the Germans and Russians had engaged in hand-to-hand fighting on the northwestern outskirts of the Volga river metropolis indicated that the invaders may be attempting to deliver an all-out assault from this sector.

The Russian defenses in this region were strengthened after Nazi tanks and tommy gun wielding German troops were driven back after ramming wedges into the Soviet lines.

against enemy ships and planes in the Kiska harbor, the communique said, adding that the enemy objectives were strafed by the American planes. Large explosions followed bombing and strafing of installations and storage dumps.

The communique from Admiral Nimitz said:

"This afternoon our army air force based in Alaska delivered a most successful attack against enemy shipping and shore installations at Kiska.

"Enemy ships and planes in the harbor received direct bomb hits and repeated strafing.

"At least two naval vessels were sunk and five enemy planes shot down in flames. One four-engined patrol plane burned on the water.

"Installations and storage dumps around the harbor were repeatedly bombed and strafed resulting in large fires and explosions.

"Enemy personnel casualties are estimated at around 500 whereas we lost two pilots as a result of two P-38S colliding in mid-air."

The sad truth is, our form of government changed when politicians learned to pass out public money just before each election

FIGHTING PLANES GIVE U.S. FLIERS ADVANTAGE IN BATTLES IN PACIFIC

(army) planes accompanied bombers on a devastating raid on Jap positions and shipping at Kiska indicated that the Pacific conflict is entering a new phase of aerial warfare in which long-range fighter planes may play a vital part.

This was revealed in a navy communique on the north Pacific war theater which stated in part:

"On Sept. 4, two long range army pursuit planes (Lockheed 'Lightnings') accompanied by one army heavy-bomber (Consolidated 'Liberator') made a strafting attack on enemy ships, aircraft and shore installations at Kiska harbor in the western Aleutian islands.

"A four engined flying boat is believed to have been destroyed on the water and many casualties both aboard ships and shore were reported.

"On Sept. 14, a large group of army heavy bombers (Consolidated 'Liberators') accompanied by army pursuit planes (Bell Airacobras' and Lockheed 'Lightnings') bombed and strafed the same objectives from low altitude."

Success In Aleutians

While some damage was caused to installations and at least two cruisers were hit by torpedoes and bombs in the Solomons in recent action, the communique on the Aleutians indicated that the success and scope of the latest U. S. assault in that area was much greater.

The attack on the Japs in the Kiska raids resulted in the sinking of two minesweepers, damage to three large cargo vessels and hits on three submarines and a number of small craft.

In addition, the American aerial force of fighters and bombers set on fire storehouses and supply dumps in the camp area.

"Four Zero fighters and one small plane were shot down," the navy said. "One large patrol plane was destroyed on the water. An estimated 500 troops were either killed or wounded.

"No U. S. aircraft were lost as a result of enemy action."

In the communique on the Solomons campaign, the navy said that the "intensity of fighting on Guadacanal island has decreased and marines are still holding their positions."

On Sept. 14, the navy said that two Flying Fortress bombers attacked enemy installations at Rekata bay on Santa Isabel island, setting several fires.

Attack Jap Cruisers

"On Sept. 16 (Sept. 15 Washington date) navy and marine corps dive-bombers (Douglas Devastators) and navy torpedo planes (Grumman Avengers) attacked Japanese cruisers and destroyers south of Choiseul island, the communique said. "One cruiser was damaged by a torpedo and a second by bombs."

In both theaters of war, American forces appeared to be depending on land-based planes of all types not only for defensive but also for offensive operations against the Japanese. The most important fact, however, was the revelation that pursuit planes were able to accompany bombers on a long-range raid.

Hitherto American army bombers suffered because the U. S. was unable to provide enough pursuit planes for protection, and those employed had such short range they were practically useless.

The fact that army land-based planes accompanied bombers on the Kiska raid indicated that both these problems now are being solved. It was not disclosed where the planes came from, but the nearest U. S. base to Kiska is Dutch Harbor, at least 600 air miles—one way.

Importance of land-based aircraft has been stressed repeatedly in the present conflict which has also shown up the vulnerability of aircraft carriers. The latter fact was re-emphasized with the navy's disclosure that the 19,000-ton U. S. aircraft carrier Yorktown was sunk during the battle of Midway early in June.

American army and navy forces have taken a heavy toll of Japanese aircraft carriers and this fact alone is believed to have curbed Japanese invasion thrusts in the past few weeks.

HUGE AIR RAID MADE BY BRITISH ON RUHR DISTRICT

heaviest since June 25 when 52 out of 1,000 RAF bombers failed to return from a raid on the North Sea port of Bremen.

Losses in mass raids have run between 4 and 5 per cent, and on this basis last night's losses indicated that nearly 800 of England's big bombers ranged over targets in western Germany.

The first air ministry announcement gave no details as to the specific targets under attack or the damage caused.

Raid Tempo Mounting

The tempo of the air offensive against the Axis has been mounting steadily in recent weeks. In the last nine raids, it was estimated, 1,500 bombers have blasted German war production centers with thousands of tons of high explosive and incendiary bombs.

In the past ten days Germany has had only one night's respite from the sustained attack.

Never before have so many bombers been sent against the Reich in so short a period.

In the nine latest assaults on German cities it was estimated that only 91 of the 1,500 participating planes were destroyed by Nazi anti-aircraft batteries and night fighters.

This is a loss of slightly more than 6 per cent. In the mass raids in which 1,000 or more planes took part, losses were between 4 and 5 per cent.

Twenty Cities Targets

During the past ten days 20 cities in Germany and its satelite states have been blasted by the RAF and bombers of the Red Air Force. Excluding fighter and attack-bomber raids on the French occupied coast, the bombed cities include:

Wilhelmshaven, Bremen, Koenigsburg, Dusseldorf, Frankfort-On-Main, Duisburg, Emden, Bremerhaven and Breslau in Germany, Budapest in Hungary, Prague in Czechoslovakia, Schiedham, Rotterdam and Utrecht in Holland, Meaulle, Rouen, Havre and Cherbourg in France, and the Rumanian oil center of Ploesti.

While last night's air assault was not believed to have been on the 1,000-plane scale, it was one of the heaviest since mid-summer when the Nazi naval base at Bremen was blasted into smoking ruins in a sustained attack by more than 1,000 of Britain's biggest bombers.

The RAF has carried out three 1,000-plane raids on Reich cities. The first was on the night of May 30, on Cologne, and 44 British bombers were lost.

Two nights later another mass raid by more than 1,000 bombers blasted the great German Krupp armament plant at Essen. Thirty-five RAF planes were lost.

Bremen was bombed in the third mass raid on the night of June 25, when the heaviest loss was recorded. Fifty-two RAF bombers failed to return to their bases.

The losses on these three heaviest air attacks in the history of warfare was approximately four and a half per cent.

Sugar and cocoa-bean products normally constitute more than 50 per cent of the raw materials used by the confectionery industry, according to the Department of Commerce.

LONDON, Sept. 17. — Reuters (British) news agency reported today that the Swiss radio broadcast a report that the Vatican has intervened in the "conflict" between the government of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and French ecclesiastical authorities over anti-Jewish measures in unoccupied France.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The Vichy radio broadcast a report today that Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy to the Vatican, is expected in Rome during the day by air.

"The purpose of his visit is not disclosed," the report said. "But it would not be surprising if the word peace figures in any speculation about his unexpected journey."

The Vatican was quoted as saying that Taylor's visit was a routine one in connection with his ambassadorial duties. Vichy failed to explain how a citizen of a nation at war with Italy can travel in Italian territory.

STROYNE-PATTERSON WEDDING OF INTEREST

One of the prettiest of early fall weddings which is of interest to many in New Castle, was that which took place Tuesday morning, September 15, in St. Gabriel's church, Pittsburgh, when Miss Agnes A. Stroyne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Stroyne of 3620 Fleming avenue, North Side, Pittsburgh, became the bride of James Loyal Patterson of Bellevue R. D. 7, son of former residents here, the late James C. and Grace Leslie Patterson.

The formal ceremony was witnessed by a gathering of guests numbering upwards of 200, with the vows being pledged at 9 o'clock. The Rev. Fr. Nialinak officiated, using the single ring service, before the beautifully embanked altar, a profusion of gladioli, ferns and palms being used in artistic arrangement.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was most attractive in a white slipper satin gown made with fitted bodice and bouffant net skirt with satin insertions fashioned toe length. She wore an heirloom bracelet belonging to her mother, and a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a brides shower arm bouquet. Mrs. Louis Novacell as matron of honor wore a peach net creation, floor length, and bridesmaids included Irene Stroyne, Irene and Frances Jacobs, who appeared in aqua gowns, made similar. Their arm bouquets corresponded.

Louis Novacell of Pittsburgh served as best man, while ushering were Robert and Ralph Stroyne of Pittsburgh and Sgt. Robert L. Patterson, Houston, Texas.

Appropriate wedding music contributed further to the impressiveness of the occasion, with the church organist at the console.

A congratulatory period followed, and afterwards, a reception was held in the Knights of Columbus House in West View. Later, Mr. Patterson and his bride left on a trip to Canada. For going away, she chose a chocolate brown ensemble with matching jaunty rolled coachman hat with Australian green accessories. They will take up residence in their newly furnished apartment in Pittsburgh upon returning.

The bride, a graduate of St. Mary's School for Girls, is associated in the offices of the Travelers Insurance company. The bridegroom, who attended New Castle High, graduated from Oliver High in Pittsburgh and is employed at the First National Bank of Pittsburgh.

An array of beautiful shower and wedding gifts received by the couple were displayed at the bride's home. She has been feted at a series of lovely parties since their engagement was announced several weeks ago.

Included in the out of town guests present was a brother of the bridegroom, Sgt. Robert Patterson and his bride of February 14, 1942, of Houston, Texas, the former Helen Kushner of Pittsburgh.

A highlight on their calendar of routine affairs, was the formulating of plans for dedicating a special American flag to those members now engaged in the U S. army, marine and navy forces. The dedication will be held soon, and those sharing honors will include Nick Cagnetti, Frank Audino, Anthony Cappabianco, Anthony Deli, Humbert Isabella, Victor Chill, Vincent Pagliaro, Eugene Fava, Guy Delliqueadre, Andrew Ross and Gene Audia. The organization also passed a resolution to carry the boys through on the "roll of honor" for the duration, until their return from active duty.

The Story Of Famous Diamonds

. . diamonds that have shared in the course of world events.

The SANCY

The smallest, yet one of the most interesting of the famous Oriental diamonds, is the Sancy. When Henry IV ascended the throne he accepted this diamond as security for a loan. The messenger never arrived with it, however, for he was killed by robbers. Thinking of what steps the messenger could have taken to guard the stone, his body was dug up and the stomach opened. The famous Sancy had been swallowed by the faithful messenger. Today, some say that this diamond is the property of the Maharajah of Patiala; others, that it belongs to Lady Astor.

GRIMNESS OF BLACKOUT

THE term is descriptive of what is happening in the world today.

Blackout means much more than doing without artificial light. It is a symbol of the gradual destruction of human advancement. It means the breaking up of families, the death of millions of innocent people, the destruction of a free education and religious system. It is the forerunner of a type of government that makes slaves of all the people it touches.

Blackout symbolizes the end of civilization as we have known it. It is an ominous word. In a country like ours, imagination cannot conceive of the terror that follows in its wake. Blackout is the forerunner of a new type of enemy invasion that wherever successful, actually does black out, or wipe out individual identity, opportunity, savings, family relations—for the children become mere pawns of the state—freedom of speech, freedom of worship, private enterprise—every thing that symbolizes America.

The fact that large sections of this nation are now living under dim-out and black-out regulations is a warning—an ominous shadow of what we face if we do not crush the forces that have caused almost a total blackout of the rest of the world.

There would be little labor trouble, or production trouble, or politics-as-usual if the people could visualize what blackout means. It's mere shadow should be enough to cement this nation into one irresistible unit of opposition.

RAIL EQUIPMENT NEEDED

It is not surprising that the railroads, hauling capacity loads every day without interruption, seem to be nearing the day when they must obtain new equipment. They have estimated their minimum needs as 80,000 new freight cars and 900 locomotives by next year.

The railroads estimate total carloadings next year will increase 7 per cent over this year and revenue ton miles will gain 15 per cent because of the much heavier loading of cars. Passenger traffic will increase 14 per cent, it is estimated. Volume of freight hauled this year is 18 per cent greater than last year. This steady grinding away wears out cars and locomotives.

Since last October the railroads have obtained delivery of 76,399 freight cars and 640 locomotives. The new request for equipment is in addition to those deliveries. Of the total of 80,000 cars now needed, railroads want 76,500 to be open-top cars and only 3,500 box cars.

REPORTER WENDELL WILLKIE

It is fortunate that Wendell Willkie took a trip to Egypt. Thus we, the American public, were able to learn that more than a third of General Rommel's first-line tanks were knocked out in the recent fighting. Apparently it was a real offensive which the Anglo-American forces stopped, and not a mere raid in force.

There were many first-line reporters in Egypt, competent, alert, intelligent, aggressive, competitively eager. Yet it remained for Mr. Willkie to break this news to the home front.

Two possibilities are apparent. One is that Mr. Willkie has betrayed secrets of value to the Axis by telling this news. That we doubt, first because of Mr. Willkie's common sense, and second because of the character of the report itself. The other is that an incomplete censorship prevented press men from seding this news, but had no control over Mr. Willkie.

TRYING IT OUT ON THE DOG

Chemists are always up to the strangest things. Now, according to revelations at the American Chemical Society, they're working on a "longevity diet" which, it is claimed, will not only add years to life, but make the years worth living by postponing the slowing-down processes that follow middle age.

Fed to puppies, the chemists were told, this wonderful diet—low in calories, but high in proteins, minerals and vitamins—kept the dogs healthy and prolonged their puppyhood.

But would this dog food work just as marvelously with human beings? We doubt it. We even doubt whether it's wise to prolong puppyhood. Anyone whose puppy has chewed slippers, shoes, cushions, curtains, chair and carpets longs for the day when his reckless pet has outgrown puppyhood and assumed the responsibilities of doghood.

It seems to us there are many people whose mentality has remained in the puppy stage too long as it is. Perhaps the chemists, leaving their test tubes for the nonce to do a little social researching, would learn to their amazement that a lot of puppy-minded people got that way by gorging themselves on proteins, minerals and vitamins, with not enough calories. Waiter, we'll take roast beef and mashed. And don't forget the calories!

A VANADIUM FIND

Growing out of the necessities of this war will come an avalanche of chemical wonders. Among them may be a new process for vanadium, the steel hardener. The United States needs it. It has been getting most of it in driblets from Peru and Africa. Now it is on the verge of obtaining new supplies of it at home—in Idaho—thanks to science.

Dr. J. Perry Morgan, chemical engineer for the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and Prof. Arthur W. Hixson, a Columbia University chemistry expert, have discovered a process for extracting vanadium from Idaho phosphate rock now used for manufacturing fertilizer. More than 500,000 tons of vanadium from this source are reported to be in sight.

This metal, which imparts strength and durability to iron and steel, serves in automobile axles and crankshafts, in armaments and machine tools, in locomotive piston rods and in countless other devices.

The amount of vanadium in the Idaho ore is so small that it will have to be produced in connection with the manufacture of fertilizer. There are few ores that contain more that a fraction of 1 per cent of vanadium. The principal domestic ores are roscolite, a vanadium mica, and cornotite found in the vicinity of Rifle, Placerville and Vanadium, Colorado.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FIXING CHILD'S ALLOWANCE

A certain lawyer writes:

"Dear Dr. Myers: I am surprised, chagrined and disheartened by your article 'Teaching child use of money.' You seemed still inclined to put property rights ahead of human rights.

"Such things would seem impossible on the part of a man of your intelligence but your enemies must joyfully cry that you are a sodden reactionary, and as to your friends—what can they reply?

"You would have the baby spend only on certain days and would 'hold him strictly to this program.'

"You would place money in his hands only after he has developed responsibility!

"You favor itemized budgets instead of blanket appropriations!

"You are firmly against temptations to juggle accounts!

"And all this in the early, impressionable years of the child, when he is most likely to fall into the habits of frugality, financial responsibility and regard for the rights that so disgraced the old, forever-departed age of scarcity!"

My Reply

I am sorry you dislike my article, "Teach child use of money." I am not sure I understand your point of view or that you do mine.

I would have the baby spend or receive money only on a certain of the week instead of letting him have it when he asked for it, the purpose being to cultivate the first steps in him of waiting and planning.

I would place money in the child's hands to cover a number of expenditures only after he had acquired enough responsibility to distribute this amount over a period, say a week, after a plan.

I do favor itemized budgets for the child, he designating ahead of time the amount needed for certain regular requirements for a week, say, such as for lunch, bus fare, Sunday school, plus a small amount to do with as he pleases. Then from time to time, as he saw new regular needs arising he could revise the budget with me.

Some children, of course, do very well at having a certain amount of money given them, to be given more after they have made a satisfactory itemized report on the preceding amount; while others fall into the temptation of juggling in order to win the next allowance. My plan would remove this temptation.

I am enclosing my special bulletin on "Allowances" which, I hope, will make my point of view more clear.

Anyway, I am grateful to you for your letter, as I am to all who read my column thoughtfully and critically. Do write me at any time when you think I am wrong.

One Man's Opinion

Those reversible production stories leave us dizzier than a man who has toured Niagara Falls in a barrel.

We're away ahead . . . We're away behind . . . We're doing great . . . We're falling down . . . By the end of 1943 we'll have everything . . . By the end of 1943 we won't have anything.

The newspapers could tell us quickly enough where we stand if they could get loose on the story but they can't. Production figures are military secrets.

We are like the old woman who had so many secrets she kept silent in seven languages.

GERMAN PRACTICE

This is the teaching of the Hun:
Kill for the slightest evil done.

Stand all who differ, low or high,
Against a firing wall to die.

Be deaf to pity's gentle plea,
To all offenders heartless be.

Destroy without an hour's delay
All who would bar Der Fuehrer's way.

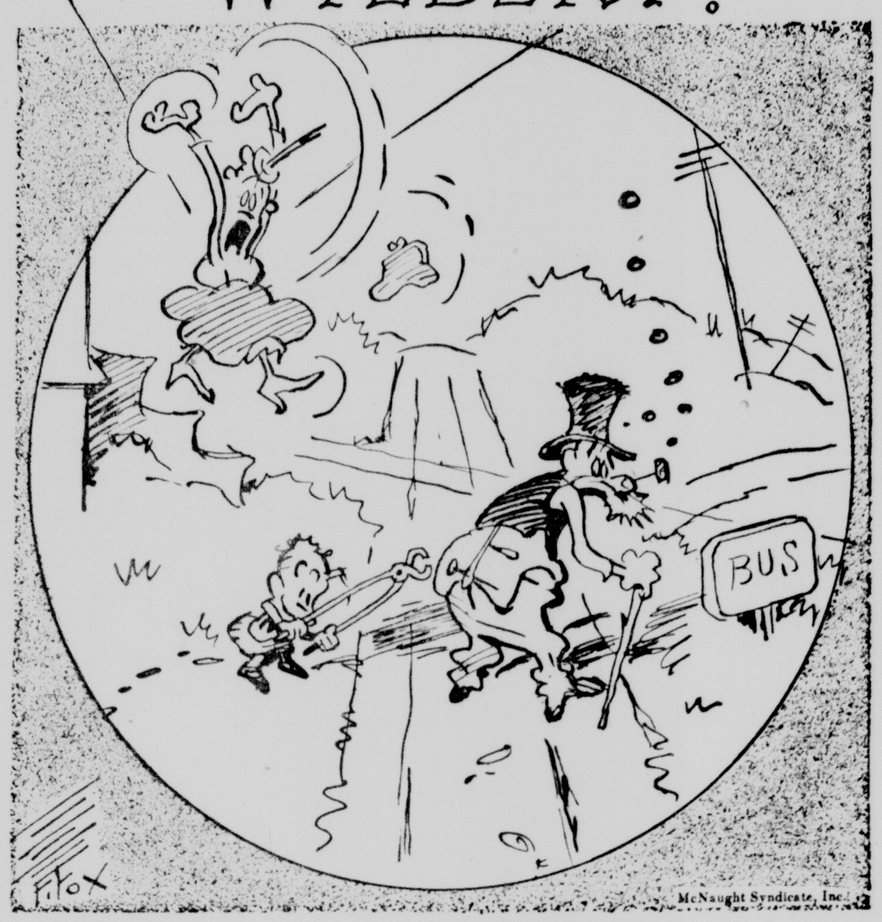

This is the German method: Shoot
Till freedom's voices all are mute!

Lest one brave man for truth shall dare
Even his children do not spare!

Thus we (and much against our will)
The spies among us also kill.

For, as you teach us, German brute,
We, too, must also execute

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:06. Sun rises tomorrow 6:43.

Government officials should be the ones who give orders in this country. There are too many minority dictators making things bad for the big majority of Americans.

Just think of the scrap metal the government would get if all the people turned in the old keys they carry in their pockets and that are lying around in their homes! No use to anybody and some help the tailors by wearing out the pockets.

Very often it's a lot of words that say very little.

It has been asked about the gentle custom of kneeling before the one whose hand is to be asked in marriage. It universally prevailed in the days when knights were bold and there were as well, frequent osculations of the hand. Where the custom still lingers on, the strict usage is for the swain to kneel on both knees before a maiden, on one knee before one who is being sought for a second time. However, the custom bids fair to pass out because I am told men find it difficult to be humble before a sweater and a pair of slacks and to kiss a hand with long red talons.

"Can you tell me, wumman," said one, "what it is they call a jubilee?"

"Well, it's this," replied the other. "When folks has been married 25 years that's a silver weddin', and when they have been married 50 years that's a golden weddin'. But if the man's dead, then it's a jubilee."

GETTING ACQUAINTED AT PARTIES

"I have just married and am about to make my first attempt at entertaining. I intend to give a small dinner party. Thus far, I have noted that in this community, which is strange to me, the people at parties seem to be stiff and slow in getting well acquainted. How should I proceed to help them know one another better?"—Reba.

Answer: It is your social duty to share your conversation with all those seated near you—whether at a dinner, tea or reception. Never be responsible for leaving someone "out in the cold". If a guest seems to be deserted and quiet, try to bring him into the conversation by occasionally turning to him and saying: "Don't you think so, Mr. Smith?"

During a dance, the hostess should continually ask the men who are not dancing to dance with the women being left in the wall-flower line. A very thoughtful hostess when asked to dance will often suggest: "I am too busy just now and I do want you to take this dance with Mary over there."

In a social set, such as you describe, women are neglected not so much because they are unattractive as because the men are socially lazy. See to it that your husband takes them in hand, one by one, and brings them into the conversation at the dinner table, or asks them to dance, if you will have dancing after your dinner is over.

Question: Please give me the precedence in the army and navy after the commander-in-chief.

L. R. L.

Answer: Army: general, lieutenant general, major general, brigadier general, colonel, lieutenant colonel, major captain, first lieutenant, second lieutenant. Navy: admiral, vice admiral, rear admiral, captain, commander, lieutenant (senior), lieutenant (junior), ensign.

Gandhi Causes Concern To Uncle Sam
Brings More Worry Than Adolf Hitler
Hitler Hated But We Understand Him

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Gandhi, the Hindoo's religious fanatical leader in India, is more of a worry to the United Nations than Herr Hitler is. They hate Adolf but they understand him. They rate him as wicked enough to class as a curiosity. Still, his peculiarities are of a sort that they're able to analyze and deal with appropriately.

Gandhi's eccentricity is of a type all by itself. He isn't exactly hateful. It would be almost better if he were. A hateful guy can be obliterated from this world's standpoint and dispatched to hades to round out the spiritual remainder of his career. It's a difficult treatment, though, to prescribe for a chap whose offense is that he's too darned virtuous.

The English may have some comprehension of Gandhi-ism. They have had considerable experience with his Hindoo type, but it's as new to this country as infinity.

Yet, that Indian situation is of tremendous importance to the United States.

It has its bearing (vital, too) upon all our activities in the Far East—versus Japan and in the interests of China and Australia and, quite likely, of Russia presently.

There's no end of guessing on the subject in Washington, but guessing is all it amounts to; no conclusions being reached.

China's Supply Line

It's been discussed with China's capital of Chungking, incidentally. For military supplies the Chinese are mightily dependent on us and these supplies have to reach them via India. Now, suppose the Japs, breaking in there formidably, effectively sever this communications line? It's raise Cain with the Chinese, and, because they're our allies, it'll raise Cain with us also.

Russia'll be sideswiped likewise, for it'll be a development right at the Soviet's rear door.

And naturally it'll be a vicious jab at Britain, another of our associates.

To be sure, such a program must involve various risks on Japan's part.

It will distract the Japs' atten-

The Great Game Of Politics

A "Blowoff" Would Be Bad

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. THERE IS in Washington considerable apprehension lest in the elections, now only seven weeks off, a popular reaction against the Administration should result in large Republican gains in Congress—or, at least, in the retirement of many present members. This dread has affected both the legislative and executive branches of the government in various ways—all bad.

RECENTLY, one of the most powerful magazines in the country solemnly warned the President that the American people had begun to sense the incompetency of the war management, and that there was danger of a "blowoff" in November. That and kindred comment have frightened many rabbit-hearted men here and account for the way they shy off from the sales tax, the proposal to lower the minimum draft age and other essential and inevitable measures for the conduct of the war.

IT IS true the management is in a mess and it is true there have been indefensible delays, vacillation and evasion in White House and Congress. Nevertheless, it would be unfortunate, indeed, if in November anything in the nature of a revolt were recorded in the vote. For one thing it would be construed by our enemies as indicative of national disunity. For another, it would weaken a management none too strong at best. For another, except for Hamilton Fish, whose personal record and associations loudly call for his defeat—and a few others—it is doubtful that things would be improved by the retirement of many sitting members, either Democrats or Republicans.

IT, OF COURSE, is a sound argument to say that only in that way can the people make their desires effective either with Congress or the President. But, there is no guarantee that the new members would respond to the will of the people differently from the old ones—unless that will were made manifest in a more concrete form than it has been yet. Anyhow, Congress can't run the war. The President has to do that and it is upon him popular pressure should be put. In his great speech the other day Mr. Churchill pointed out that he could be dismissed by a single vote in the House of Commons. Here, of course, even the election of a hostile Congress would not change the President's status. It would weaken him; it would be a blow to him, and

The World and the Mud Puddles

DANGER AHEAD

A very large part of the wealth and property of the citizens of these United States is invested in the stocks and bonds of corporations and the great bulk of the bondholders and stockholders are men and women of small and moderate means. Members of the Congress of this nation seem to overlook this fact and in the new tax bill have actually soaked the corporations, and in doing so they have soaked the savings of the people. The new tax bill reduces the ability of the people to pay taxes and to buy government bonds. No matter what else it does; no matter whether it deprives the citizens of a means of livelihood or not, it likewise destroys the confidence of the people on whom rests the responsibility of carrying on the business and industry of the nation.

One of the great weaknesses in our present tax structure, is the burden it imposes on businesses which have not benefited, and have in many instances suffered, from the war. Writing in Newsweek, Ralph Robey said of the new tax bill:

"Under this measure companies whose incomes are more or less fixed, such as public utilities, would be taxed disproportionately heavier than concerns engaged in war work. For many such companies, therefore, the additional taxes proposed in this bill would mean almost certain bankruptcy."

And it is upon these companies on which we will have to depend for sustained employment and peacetime expansion after the war.

Any tax bill which undermines basic industry will prove destructive in the long run. Any tax bill which increases the difficulty of obtaining new capital for basic industry, is dangerous. The war effort depends upon vigorous, productive industry—and upon individual and corporate purchasing of War Bonds. That is what Congress seems to have forgotten. And Congress must remember that before it is too late.

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

There has been quite a controversy raging in New Rochelle, a suburb of New York.

Anxious to help the nation's scrap drive, Mayor Stanley W. Church donated to the cause a 320-year-old cannon, given to its namesake by the city of La Rochelle, France.

Immediately a committee of historians and artists raised an enormous howl and the matter went before the courts.

It was all right to give all the iron and steel and other metal to the war effort, said the complainants, but the cannon from La Rochelle ranked with the Liberty Bell, the Statute of Liberty and the Declaration of Independence.

In reply, Mayor Church contended that for years this self-same cannon was kept in the City Council chambers without anyone paying any attention to it.

As a matter of fact, it was used only as a receptacle for cigarette butts, waste paper, and odds and ends, he said, so that it was finally hidden away in the basement for the Public Library.

That episode is significant of human nature in general, isn't it?

Look how we neglected our freedom, until someone tried to take it away from us.

A priceless treasure, we treated it just like that old cannon in New Rochelle.

We just took it for granted. We passed it by without a look; we used it as a receptacle for all our personal prejudices, our isms, and selfishness.

But when the enemy threatened to scrap it, we rose as one man to take Freedom out of the basement and put it on the pedestal where it belongs.

Let us never let it tarnish again!

Aviation Will Be Taught In High School

Board Authorizes Addition Of Course At Meeting Wednesday Night

MINOR ACTION AT BOARD SESSION

Senior high school students will be studying aviation in a short time. At the meeting of the board of directors Wednesday night the request of Principal Clare B. Book that aviation should be taught was granted. The request originates with the Federal government. Books were authorized Wednesday night and classes will be started soon.

Republicans To Support Bill To Block Inflation

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Senate Republicans were expected to declare their support for drastic anti-inflation legislation today, as the senate banking committee was called into secret session to report a bill to meet President Roosevelt's demand for action.

The house banking committee, seeking to avoid open hearings, planned to go into secret conference again with the possibility that it, too, may approve a measure stabilizing wages and farm prices within the next 24 hours.

With their eyes on the October 1 deadline set by Mr. Roosevelt, Democratic leaders in both branches sought to step up the tempo of the legislative machinery.

Republican Senate Leader McNary, who favors control for both agricultural prices and wages, called senate Republicans into a special conference.

While some Republicans from farm states demanded amendments to the Brown Bill, veteran minority members generally predicted support for the presidential demand for legislation.

Sen. Brown (D) Mich., in charge of the senate bill, was optimistic over chances of pushing a measure through the senate next week.

Leaders of both organized labor and agriculture had declared themselves in favor of the stabilization program, through with some exceptions which might embroil congress in a bitter fight.

STEAL SIDEWALKS

NEWBURYPORT, Mass.—Taking the sidewalks in at night may seem pretty far-fetched, but it appears to be the only satisfactory solution for at least two North Shore home owners.

A Newburyport resident reported to police that a plank walk had been stolen from her yard. Earlier the same week, the sidewalk in front of a Danvers, Mass., home had also been reported stolen.

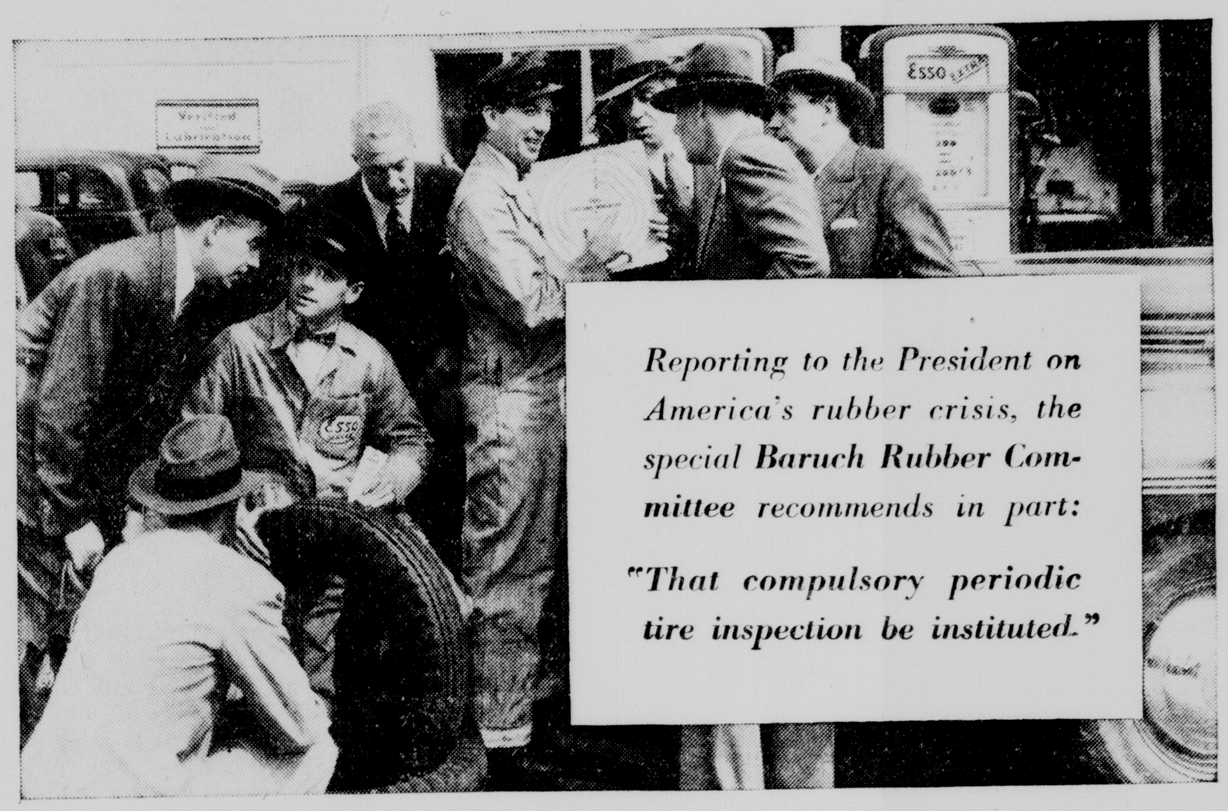

Both robberies occurred at night.

Escaped Lifer May Go Free

A happy ending to the story of Osmund Westgate seems to be just around the corner. Westgate, whose past caught up with him when his fingerprints were taken at a war plant in which he worked, is shown with his wife and Rev. Harold Smith, who married them. Since he escaped from Joliet Prison 18 years ago, Westgate has lived a model life and Gov. Dwight Green of Illinois says he has no intention of extraditing him. Westgate was released in New York City in the custody of Father Smith. (Central Press)

Coal Production Shows Increase In This Area

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17.—The war-accelerated demand for soft coal was reflected today in announcement that mines from nine western Pennsylvania counties had increased their production for the first seven months of this year by more than 9,000,000 tons over the corresponding period of 1941.

Production for the current year to the first of August was 50,978,303 tons, as compared with 1941's 41,607,944, Byron Canon, executive secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators' association, reported. He said the increase, approximately 23 per cent, would fill more than 1,000,000 freight cars.

Of the total output, 23,970,000 tons came from captive mines; 2,169,484 tons from truck mines, and 24,838,217 from commercial mines, Cannon announced. Production for the month of July was 7,237,957 tons, which was two per cent below June's figure.

Counties included in the production figures were Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Fayette, Lawrence, Mercer, Washington, Westmoreland, Venango and a part of Armstrong.

Huge Steel Train Shed Turned In For Scrap Metal

Expect Several Hundred Tons Of Scrap Will Be Provided

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17—The Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railroad turned over a huge steel high-level train shed to the government today, to be turned into scrap that eventually will find its way into guns and other implements of war.

War Materials, Inc., new government salvage agency, estimated the shed would account for 250 tons of No. 1 heavy melting steel, and 8,000 pounds of needed copper fittings, while Railroad President Charles J. Graham calculated the scrap involved would run closer to 480 tons all told.

Graham said his line was devoting its entire capacity to war work these days, and added:

"There are hundreds and hundreds of these sheds all over the country. All of them are outmoded and all of them could be turned into guns."

A spokesman for War Materials, Inc., said the building would be dismantled and sold at standard scrap prices, with excess funds reverting to the railroad after demolition fees are paid. The donation of the shed was called Pittsburgh's largest single contribution of the war to date.

That's a timely example of twice as much for your money. But there's another example that you enjoy every day—if yours is an average household. It's the fact that you get twice as much electric service for the same money as you did 10 or 15 years ago.

You probably never realized it, for you were adding more electric appliances and using more electricity, all the time the rates were going down. Actually, the electric bill of two-thirds of all American families is a dime about day—or less.

That's just about the biggest dime's worth in the world — and worth remembering right now when the war is giving everybody a new sense of values.

Such a bargain is possible only because of the American system for which we're all fighting — a system of business management under public regulations, where free men are rewarded for their initiative and ability — and an ambitious office boy is a potential boss.

Women Pilots To Be Ferrying Planes Shortly

Head Of WAFS Says Work Will Soon Be On Full Swing In U S.

By JANE COCHRAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

AT AN EAST COAST AIR BASE, Sept. 17.—Women pilots will be ferrying light trainer and Liaison planes to army air fields all over the continental United States within five weeks, Mrs. Nancy Love, director of women pilots in the newly organized women's auxiliary ferrying squadron, revealed today.

Swinging into action with a speed befitting an air corps auxiliary, the powder puff pilots will be doing their part to "keep 'em flying" within a month after their arrival at this east coast training base. No overseas flying is in prospect for the women and they are now limited strictly to the light planes—but they'll be kept "plenty busy" with them Mrs. Love said.

Five women have already been accepted for the WAFS and more are being checked in daily. Mrs. Love expects 25 to be on hand when training starts on Monday and the entire group of 50 is expected to be in training within a month or six weeks.

Tremendous Opportunity

"I feel this is a tremendous opportunity—the greatest opportunity that has been given to women fliers in this country," the young and pretty Mrs. Love declared. "This is an experiment with the use of women pilots in the air transport division and it's up to us women to prove our worth."

More than 200 applications have been received, Mrs. Love said, and about 25 per cent of them "seem to be qualified." Qualifications are stiff and of the women so far accepted, all have over 700 hours flying time and four have over 2,000 hours.

The women have no military status, and will not wear uniforms. They will, however, wear a flying suit for training and ferrying work, and will wear "standardized attire."

The WAFS, who will easily rate as the "glamour girls" of the auxiliary services, arent' interested in living up to the title—they're interested in proving that they can fly in the service of their country and fly with the best of them.

Even their director, Mrs. Love, won't be a desk-chained pilot.

"I'm going out on as many of the ferrying trips as my duties will allow," she declared.

What's What At A Glance

tion from Siberia, as well as from our own transpacific assaults on 'em. It will spread 'em out like sixty.

And what will the Indians say?

Please note that I mention the "Indians"—all of 'em.

We know in advance what Gandhi's Hindoos will say. Their policy's one of purely passive resistance—against Japan and everybody else. Gandhi thinks it's a system that'll win. I have my personal doubts about it, but maybe it won't be as passive as Gandhi suggests. His followers have got it in operation against the English now and a good bit of shooting accompanies it, reports indicate.

Gandhi, it's to be borne in mind, is pro-independence. He's no more pro-Japanese than he's pro-British. He's for resistance against all-comers, only it's of the passive kind. Well, his passive definition of it is pretty embarrassing (including a bit of bloodshed) to the British. Maybe that same definition will apply to the Japs, if they try to butt in.

Not All Pacifists

Besides, not all Indians are pacifistic Hindoos. Several millions of 'em are Mahammedans and various additional super-belligerent breeds. They're in a minority in comparison with the Hindoos, but actually they're numerous—some of the best scrappers Britain has got.

Between these avowed fighters and the pacifists who aren't genuinely pacifistic and real pacifism's possibilities (Gandhi's demonstrated that it can be made a perfect wartime pest), it may be a mean area for the Japs to horn into.

Washington diplomacy is discussing the possibilities of a "negotiated settlement" in India.

It promises to be a heck of a job, especially considering our 100 per cent ignorance of everything in India.

We could negotiate with Esquimaux or Hottentots as intelligently as with the Afghanistan and Mount Everest vicinities—the northern Hindoos neighborhoods.

Gandhi is a character, though.

I've heard him referred to as a Messiah.

That was quite awhile back. Today!— Oh, my!

It'll be interesting to read about him in a century later's history.

Or several centuries!

We've had those lapses hitherto.

Two Destroyers Lost By Britain In Tobruk Raid

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Two "tribal" class destroyers, the H. M. S. Sikh and H. M. S. Zulu, were lost in the recent Allied raid on Tobruk, the admiralty announced today.

Both were of 1,870 tons displacement, were finished in 1938 and cost approximately $2,000,000 each. They had eight 4.7-inch guns, 7 smaller guns and torpedo tubes. They were equipped with turbines.

Major Oil Concerns May Pool Services

Proposals Are Outlined At Meeting Held In Washington Yesterday

By JACK VINCENT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—In a broad move that may set the pattern for merging many competing business firms for the duration of the war the federal government today drafted plans to permit major oil companies to pool distributing and retail services for all gasoline and fuel oil to a point where the filling station of one company may sell the gas of another.

The government's proposals were outlined at a meeting between representatives of the oil industry and deputy petroleum coordinator Ralph Davies. While distributing services would be pooled and many filling stations possibly forced out of business, the oil companies would be allowed to retain their individual names and trademarks so they could resume competition after the war.

With fuel oil rationing scheduled to start in 30 states October 1, and nation-wide gasoline rationing only a matter of a few weeks, government planners said that the move would create more transportation facilities both for the movement of heating oil and motor fuel, and prevent overlapping of services.

The greatest economic impact was expected to be felt in the possible closing of some filling stations. However, it was pointed out that nation-wide gasoline rationing would force many stations to close and that stations already were faced with manpower shortages.

The Great Game Of Politics

distinctly it would not now be in the national interests, but it would not affect his position for the next two years. There are only two ways by which that could be done and no one wants either. They would be equally calamitous.

DESPITE THE warnings, the danger of a hostile Congress does not seems great but, admittedly, there is some. Such as it is, it ought to be averted and the one man who can do that is the President. If there is a "blowoff," as has been forecast, it will damage him very badly, and that will damage the war effort. Because the Roosevelt leadership is the only one we have—or can have. There is no alternative for us for two years. Therefore, it seems proper to urge Mr. Roosevelt to vaccinate against any untoward reaction in the election by removing the causes for the dissatisfaction among the people. There are three things he could do which would go a long way toward accomplishing that.

FIRST, HE could kick himself loose from his link with the professional labor and farm politicians and deal with labor and farm problems without concern about political effect of these pressure groups. Recently, he has moved in that direction, but will require more concrete action to allay the resentment caused by the long, critical months in which the Administration has permitted them to attain unduly favored position at the expense of the rest of the country. Second, he could put all thought of 1944 politics from his mind and concentrate his whole energy upon the job of winning the war. His recent fight with Mr. Farlay over control of the state machine in New York left a bad taste in the mouths of millions. Nor has the taste been removed by the manner in which he took his defeat.

AND, FINALLY, he could weed out the incompetents who encumber the war organization and prevent it from functioning; revise it so as to profit by experience and throw away his personal blacklist which bars some of the best men with the most to contribute. And, by the simple process of elimination, he could lessen the frightening confusion and create some semblance of the order so terribly needed. If he acted along these lines, all danger of a hostile Congress or a loss in prestige through large changes would disappear. Even if he does not do these things there is no nourishment in a November "blowoff." The way to get results is to keep putting pressure on the President. That, plus the inexorable weight of events, has forced him more than once since we entered this war to accept advice he had first rejected. There are plenty of ways in which the people can make their sentiment effectively felt. They do not need to elect a hostile Congress to do that. The chances are that nothing would be gained by doing that, but a great deal might be lost.

Strange man! He tells a dirty story, and then registers holier-than-thou shock when somebodys tells a dirtier one

Nurse's Aide Program To Be Started Soon

Mrs. Harry Barkby, Of Woman's Club, Named Chairman Of Committee

WOMEN MUST MEET WITH REQUIREMENTS

For many months the Lawrence County Chapter of the American Red Cross has been studying the needs of the Volunteer Nurse's Aide program for the hospitals accredited by the American College of Surgeons and registered with the Medical association.

Mrs. John E. Elliott, chairman of Volunteer Service, Mrs. J. Glenn Berry, chairman of Home Nursing, met with Miss Bodenstein, executive director of the chapter and Miss Catherine Cameron, Nursing Consultant, Eastern area, American National Red Cross, about six months ago and at that time plans were made to work out a program satisfactory to Sister Aniceta, director of nurses of the New Castle hospital and Dr. Wayne Bissell, superintendent of the Jameson hospital.

At that early meeting the requirements for establishing a corps as outlined by the American National Red Cross and approved by the U. S. office of Civilian Defense, could not be fully met by the chapter and the program was again placed in the hands of Mrs. Elliott to be studied further.

Upon the arrival of Miss Prudence Appleman as superintendent of nurses, Jameson hospital, who had in a previous position worked with the American Red Cross in the Volunteer Nurses Aide Corps, the interest in the program was revived, and changes were made in the procedure to be followed by the volunteers so that all requirements could be met as outlined by the National Nursing service and this program now is to be given in the two hospitals meeting the requirements as outlined by the American College of Surgeons.

Mrs. Harry Barkby, chairman of the Community Service committee of the New Castle Woman's club, has been selected as chairman of the Volunteer Nurse's Aide committee. Mrs. Barkby has named Mrs. William Haylord, vice chairman of the same committee of the Woman's club to assist her in forming her committee to carry on this very important program of the Lawrence County chapter.

Upon the completion of the committee, it will interview all women interested in taking this course of eighty hours of instruction and select from the applicants a group of 15 per hospital to take the first assignment. All applicants will receive an individual personal interview and it is pointed out by the committee that there are certain requirements and qualifications which must be met by each woman interested in this volunteer service. A woman must be between the age of 18 and 50 and have a satisfactory physical examination by her own family doctor. Graduation from high school or its equivalent is another necessary requirement. The willingness to complete an 80 hour course and then to serve without remuneration anytime there is a need and at specific hours designated by the committee, makes the course worthwhile not only to the individual but to the hospital to which the women are assigned.

All women now desiring to enroll as volunteer nurse's aides are asked to call personally at the chapter office and register. After this has been accomplished, Mrs. Barkby and her committee will ask for a personal interview.

Judah: An Example Of Self-Sacrifice

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

The cup in Benjamin's sack

"Hereby know we love, because He laid down His life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren."—I John 3:16.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 20 is Genesis 42-44, the Golden Text being I John 3-16, "Hereby know we love, because He laid down His life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.")

It is an exciting and dramatic story told in our lesson today. Joseph's whole life was dramatic, from the time when he was sold by his brothers to the traveling merchants, and carried into Egypt, to the reconciliation with his brothers and reunion with his father, which will come next week.

When the famine, which covered the then known world, had become so bad in Canaan that Jacob and his large family had no food, Jacob instructed his sons to go to Egypt and buy grain so that they might live. All ten of the sons were to go, except Benjamin, the other son of Rachel, his beloved. After losing Joseph, Jacob felt he could not bear to let Benjamin leave him.

Journey to Egypt

The ten brothers, then, journeyed to Egypt, little thinking whom they should see there. They were brought before Joseph, who recognized them at once, but his brothers did not know him. Being much overcome, and not knowing how they felt toward him, Joseph talked roughly to them, and accused them of being spies. This they denied, telling him they were all sons of one man, one brother had died and one son, the youngest, was at home with their father.

For three days Joseph held them in prison, then he told them when they came again they must bring their brother with them. He also commanded that they should leave one of their number in Egypt as hostage that they would come back and bring Benjamin. The brothers took counsel of one another, saying that they had doubtless gotten into this trouble because they had sold Joseph and heeded not his cries for pity. Reuben, the one who tried to save Joseph, you remember, reminded them how he had tried to persuade them not to hurt him, and that the result of their hatred of their brother now was that the life of the younger was required. As they talked in their own language they did not know that they were understood by Joseph.

Simeon was seized and bound before their eyes. Their sacks were filled with corn and they were sent on their way. One of them opened his sack on the journey back and discovered the money he had paid for the corn was in the top of it. They all then opened their sacks and found their money too was there. They were frightened. They told their father all about it when they reached home, and also about the ruler of Egypt insisting that they bring Benjamin when they went back. Jacob said: "My son shall not go down with you; for his brother is dead, and he is left alone: if mischief befall him by the way in which ye go, then shall ye bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to the grave."

Grain Is Eaten

At last the grain they had brought with them was all gone and unless they wished to starve they must go back to Egypt. Judah said they did not dare to go back without Benjamin, and indeed would not go without him, ending: "Send the lad with me, and we will arise and go; that we may live, and not die; both we, and thou, and also our little ones.

"I will be surety for him; of my hand shalt thou require him; if I bring him not unto thee, and set him before thee, then let me bear the blame for ever."

Reluctantly Jacob let them go. They took back the money they had found in their grain sacks, more money to buy the new grain, and gifts for Joseph. Seeing first Joseph's steward, they told him the whole story; he cheered them and told them not to be afraid, and brought Simeon to them. Joseph was overcome when he saw Benjamin. He asked them if their father was well, and then had to go to his chamber to weep before he could say more. Then he took them to his house and had a great feast spread before them, heaping Benjamin's plate with five times the food he served the other brothers. Possibly he wanted to see if they still were envious of this best beloved of their father's.

They had just started their homeward journey when Joseph sent his steward after them, saying that his silver cup was missing. The brothers were horrified, and searched their sacks of corn. In each was again found the purchase price of the grain they had bought, and in Benjamin's the cup was found. More terrified than ever, they hastened back to Joseph, and Judah told him about finding the money and the cup and that they all would become Joseph's servants as punishment. Joseph answered that Benjamin, in whose sack the cup was found, should become his slave, but the rest should go home to their father.

Then Judah made the ultimate sacrifice. He pictured his father allowing his beloved younger son to go with them only because he, Judah, had promised to bring him safely back. He told of his father's grief at Joseph's supposed death, and how Jacob had said it would bring his gray hairs with sorrow to the grave if Benjamin too was lost to him. He would stay, he said, and become Joseph's servant if only Benjamin was permitted to go home with the other brothers.

"For how shall I go to my father, and the lad be not with me? lest peradventure I see the evil that shall come on my father?"

Judah had been a wicked man. He had plotted to kill Joseph, but at last he had redeemed himself. In next week's lesson we shall see what Joseph's answer was.

McGinty Says Wake Isle Film Depicts Truth

Praises Film Which Gives Factual Portrayal Of Gallant Marine Stand

Peter J. McGinty, trustee and chaplain of the Gy.-Sgt. Harry T. Burns detachment of the Marine Corps league, which is sponsoring, with the co-operation of the local motion picture theater operators, one showing of the movie epic, "Wake Island" in the interests of the September War Bond drive, was asked today what he thought of the picture. Former Marine McGinty witnessed a private showing of "Wake Island" at the Marine Corps league convention in Chicago.

"It was thrilling news when we heard that we could sponsor a picture like 'Wake Island'," Mr. McGinty said. "The splendid achievement of that small garrison of United States marines has been translated into the language of the screen with magnificent results. Completely devoid of romance, it is basically a day-by-day factul record of the terrible onslaught of the Japanese air and sea forces, vastly superior in numbers, upon the garrison."

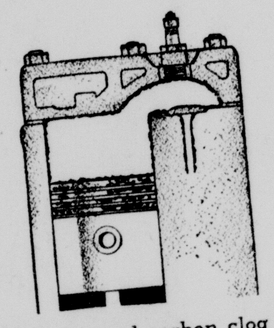

"I was told by the Paramount representative in Chicago that a complete replica of Wake Island was built and completely destroyed for the picturization of the marines' heroic defense. No expense was spared to make the picture as factual as possible. The producers, cast and craftsmen cannot be praised too highly for giving a real account of battling truths."

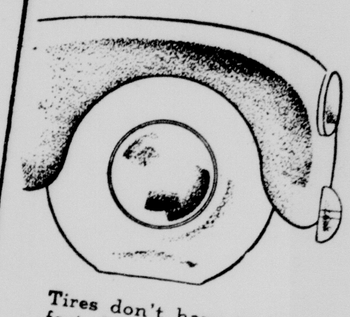

"Everyone who sees "Wake Island" will be prouder than ever that he is an American. He will leave the theater 'fighting mad' and 'fighting mad' is the way every red-blooded American should feel these days."

Pacific War Situation Discussed By Raborg

(Editor's Note: The United Nations—the Pacific war situation is discussed in the following article by Major Paul C. Raborg, noted military analyst and auther of "Mechanized Might".)

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
Written Especially for International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The statements of Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, chief of the navy's bureau of ordnance, that the United States armed forces now hold the balance of striking power in the western Pacific are forthright and devoid of bombast or boasting. This is complete confirmation of the magnificent Pacific strategy which has been used by the high command of the United Nations since the attack on Pearl Harbor.

His very simple expression of fact in no way details the tremendous distribution of ships, men, arms and supplies which has been accomplished in this vast Pacific area in the nine months that the United States hase been a participant in the war.

The admiral mentions only the western Pacific, but the mileage he has travelled indicates he has visited every center of activity where either the army, or navy, or both, are operating. In other words, he has viewed every portion of the Pacific war. His statement, "but I don't think we can do it by merely holding. We've got to keep pushing. The best defense is a strong offense. We can't remain static," truly sets forth the offensive spirit of our high command.

Under-Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal says that "we have a very real second front established in the southwest Pacific." This is complete confirmation of what Admiral Blandy has said, and again proves that our war effort is being operated entirely on offensive lines.

A quick review of the Japanese situation, together with the possible offensives they may undertake in the immediate future, is of great importance. But, first, many readers are extremely interested in Port Moresby and its strategical and tactical effects on the Pacific war.

Strategically, this United Nations base is far more than a thorn in the side of the Japanese. It is a sharp sword because from Moresby allied planes can raid practically all of New Guinea, New Britain, New Ireland and the Solomon group. It places all our airships at least 320 miles closer to these numerous Nipponese fighting locations than they would be if based in Australia.

But, to return to the general Japanese situation—on December 7th, when Japan struck the United States, the Nipponese expected, with the war in the west and particularly the battle of the Atlantic, to over-extend our armed forces to such a degree that United States offensive action anywhere would be impossible. As a matter of fact, our supreme command has reversed this situation. It is now the Japanese who are over-extended. The empire of the Rising Sun should invade India in order to join hands with Hitler in the Middle East. They must complete the subjugation of China, and attempt the conquest of Australia. They must also attack our Alaska, and all of this should be done at the same time if Nippon hopes to win the war, but such a program is physically impossible. Their army and navy is not big enough to carry on all these operations simultaneously.

War Production Will Be Doubled

Nation Has Already Spent $44,000,000 On War Effort, It Is Revealed

By JAMES OLDS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—War production experts are planning to double production until it reaches a rate of more than $7,000,000,000 a month in 1943, it was learned Wednesday as two government surveys disclosed the nation already has spent $44,000,000,000 on the war, including money for 6,300,000,000 pounds of food for the United Nations.

The War Production Board reported that war expenditures of the United States totaled $5,182,000,000 in August. That was at a rate of $199,300,000 a day, or $8,300,000 an hour. However, much of the money represented cash spent for plant expansions and other work and the figures do not reflect actual production.

Government planners predicted that the peak in actual production will be reached late next year, and they have compiled figures showing that average expenditures will be more than $7,000,000,000 a month, or more than $84,000,000,000 in 1943. The WPB, in its report, said that expenditures since July 1, 1940 until the end of August totalled $44,741,000,000. Disbursements for the remainder of the year may total more than $24,000,000,000.

As a resulut, the war effort may cost the country more than $152,000,000,000 by January 1, 1944. To date, $224,000,000,000 has been "earmarked" for making munitions.

The August total of $5,182,000,000 compared with $4,794,000,000 spent in July, a rise of 8.1 percent, and with $1,196,000,000 in August 1941, or an increase of 333.3 percent.

During the last 26 months, the War Department has spent $23,372,000,000, the Navy $13,271,000,000, the Maritime Commission $1,370,000,000, and other war agencies $6,728,000,000.

Plan To Help Soldiers' Vote

Republican County Chairman Announces Plan To Help Proposal

WILL SEND CARDS TO HASTEN PROGRAM

In an effort to aid Republican men and women now serving in the armed forces to vote on November 3, Captain Roger W. Rowland, chairman of the Republican County committee today announced that arrangements had been made to send out ballot application cards to the service men and women in all cases where the addresses are furnished.

"Because a man is in the service is no reason why he should not exercise his right of franchise" said Captain Rowland. "Naturally it is impossible for us to dig out the names and addresses of each Republican man and woman who is serving but their relatives have those addresses. If they will call the Republican headquarters in the Greer building on North Mercer, telephone 6658 and give us the addresses we will send the application cards to the service men or women. All they need do is fill out the card and mail it and the county commissioners will send them ballots."

Up To October 3

Applications for ballots can be received as long as the commissioners have time enough to get the ballots out to the service men or women. The law says that applications must be mailed not later than October 3. In the case of a boy in service in Texas or California this might mean that the application would not get in before October 7, although mailed on October 3. Such a request would be honored.

Ballots requested by service men or women will be mailed out by the county commissioners on October 19. The ballot will be counted as a part of the returns if it is received by the election return board not later than ten days after election day, which would mean November 13.

The action of the Republican County committee as announced by the chairman, Captain Rowland, will obviate a lot of delay in getting applications to the service men or women. The procedure is simple. If you have a boy or a relative in the service, who is registered as a Republican, telephone 6658, Republican headquarters, giving the name and address. The cards will be sent.

RENT BOARD READY

Lawrence county's rent board is ready to go into action on Monday morning, but the board has nothing to do with the enforcement of the maximum rent bill. Two men, Wesley Davy and C. Herbert Martin, have been appointed by the county commissioners to collect the rents on properties which have been sold to the county for taxes.

The board has its offices on the porch of the courthouse and will expect tenants to pay their rents in this office on the day it is due. It will require some time to list the properties and to ascertain what repairs, if any, are needed. The county owns a number of properties which are being rented and the commissioners feel they are entitled to collect the rents from the properties.

AROUND CITY HALL

More people rode the merry-go-round, the dodge 'em and bathed at Cascade Park last year than there are inhabitants of this city. And indications are that when Controller S. L. Lockley compiles report for 1942 activities some interesting facts will be gleaned, one of which will be whether or not the war has injured park attendance. According to the financial statement for the park last year, 53,075 paid admissions to the rides and pool. The merry-go-round attracted 23,812 admissions at a cost of $1,190.60; 13,258 rode the dodge 'em at a cost of $1,325.80 and the pool had 16,606 bathers up to August 14 when the pool closed and they paid $538.59 to keep cool. It is not known how many people danced. The pavilion was rented for $600. The city was paid $200 for the peanut concession, $100 for the boating privilege, $250 for the restaurant operation, $10.00 for the skee ball game and another man paid $36.00 for an operation of some sort, not stated. The receipts at the park were $6,275.76.

The same question 'Was 1942 golf as plentiful as 1941 golf?" Last year the course receipts amounted to $4,499.75 Five thousand, six hundred and thirty-seven played golf. More than 3,000 played nine holes, almost 2,500 played 18 holes while 132 paid $1.00 to stretch their golf out all day. There were only 35 labeled "ladies special." Tourney receipts brought the city $106.00. Fifty-one memberships were sold.

The city received from 1941 plumbing fees $679.15 and $6,597.88, from 1941 mercantile tax. . . . Autoists were taxed $24,105.20 to park their cars in the city last year and the amount may beat that figure by the end of the current year. December of last year held high with $3,443.75. (Incidentally, there has been agitation for some uptodate meters but the city opines that the present old-type can be repaired at such a low cost, everything put in them is 'pure' gravy.)

There are now more temporary policemen on the job than ever in the history of the city. No police are being permanently added because the solons are afraid of the state low that will result in the city paying one-half an officer's salary to his dependents when he marches away to join Uncle Sam's armed forces. Some firemen's dependents are receiving the benefit of $77.50, from the city.

A colored man, drunk, annoyed persons in the post office yesterday. After some time he was locked up. The colored man is not the only panhandler in that section. They watch for police to "check in" and "check out" of the Public Square district then ply their trade. Some weeks ago Patrolman Ray Showalter "cleaned house" on an aggregation that "bums dimes" in that section. It is ripe for another drive. There is no reason why a non-producer should expect people who are writing to men in armed forces to hand them dimes.

Nursemaid Is Held For Hoax

Authorities Charge Attempt To Extort $30,000 In Ransom For Her Charge

(International News Service)

PELHAM VILLAGE, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Federal authorities today were holding a 23-year old nursemaid who, keeping her charge away from home for about 12 hours, attempted to extort $30,000 in ransom by writing a kidnap note.

When the money was not forthcoming, FBI agents disclosed the nursemaid, Mrs. Kathryn Batchelder voluntarily called the parents and announced that the child had been "released".

The Hoax, according to P. E. Foxworth, assistant director of the FBI, was perpetrated last Tuesday morning when the nursemaid left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Joyce, Jr., with 4½-year old Nancy and her sister, Emily, 8 years old.

After taking Emily to school, it is charged, Mrs. Batchelder took the younger child to a room she had previously rented and mailed a note to the parents stating that both she and the child had been kidnaped and were being held for $30,000 ransom.

Joyce, a broker, was at business but his wife immediately notified police who called in FBI agents.

Investigators were hot on the trail when Mrs. Batchelder telephoned the home at 8:00 p. m. saying that she and the child had been released.

After questioning by FBI agents, she finally admitted that she had written the note with the hope of collecting the money herself.

THOMAS E. O'NEILL

Headquarters for the United States Marine Corps Recruiting in the Pittsburgh, Pa., area has announced that Thomas E. O'Neill of R. D. No. 6, Butler road, New Castle, has been accepted for service with the fighting "Leathernecks" and has been assigned to Parris Island, S. C., for basic military training.

Registration For War Training Program In City

September 22, 23 And 24 Set As Dates For Registration At Senior High

Women and older men are expected to form the bulk of the enrollment for the new war training program of the Pennsylvania State College and Westminster College which will get underway within the next few weeks. Once again the courses offered will be fitted to the needs of local and nearby war industries, according to Joseph F. Diffley, administrative head of the Penn State center here.

Registration will be held September 22, 23 and 24 at New Castle high school and classes will begin September 29.

This enineering, science and management war training program, which has qualified nearly 35,000 Pennsylvania men and women for technical jobs in war industries during the past two years, heretofore has catered to younger men but in the new government-approved program, women and older men are expected to outnumber the prospective army draftees.

The administrative head of the local center warned, however, that younger men should not neglect this opportunity to acquire this training tuition-free since the demand for technical skills is just as great in the armed services as it is in civilian life.

He said present requests indicate that the courses to be offered will cover a wide field and will embrace all training which is vital to the war effort.

The following courses will be offered here: Ceramics, safety engineering, the making of steel, engineering drafting, elementary and advanced, job analysis and wage systems, chemistry of engineering materials, elementary and advanced, fundamentals of electrical engineering, industrial electricity, foundations of engineering, industrial drafting practices, ordnance inspection, metallurgy of welding, industrial accounting, production control, time and motion study, the production of non-ferrous metal.

Kiwanians Hear Fine Address On Disease Prevention

Dr. Wilbur E. Flannery Talks On Interesting Topic Tuesday Noon

New Castle Kiwanis club members heard one of the most interesting talks they have been privileged to hear in some time, when Dr. Wilbur E. Flannery spoke to them at their noon luncheon meeting in The Castleton on Tuesday on the subject, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

He traced the history of a number of pernicious diseases and told of the progress which has been made in affecting cures, but stressed the fact that in many instances, prevention of these diseases by using proper precaution can save needless suffering and worry.

School Board Changes Pay Rate For Substitutes

Under a rule passed by the board of school directors Wednesday night, the pay of substitute teachers filling in for teachers who are on leave of absence without pay will be changed. In the past they have been paid the substitute teachers' rate. In the future they will be paid the minimum rate for regular teachers.

The matter came up when Director A. C. Hyde said that it seemed unfair to grant leaves of absence to teachers who might go out and get better jobs for a while while their work was being done by a substitute teacher at a substitute rate. Mr. Hyde expressed himself as being against leaves of absence unless they were sabatical, maternity or military.

The rule provides that a teacher filling the place of a teacher who has been given a leave of absence for a semester or more, shall be paid the minimum rate for the position

"Night Of Stars" Adds $3,000,000 In War Bonds

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17—Industrial Pittsburgh, already noted for its vitally-important role in the war effort, made a new bid for fame today with announcement that its "night of stars" program had added a cool $3,000,000 to Uncle Sam's war chest in the way of war bonds.

More than 200 industrialists attended a special luncheon with screen actress Irene Dunne yesterday noon, each of whom bought a $5,000 bond for the privilege. Last night, 6,700 citizens jammed Duquesne Garden to see and hear Miss Dunne, screen actor Jackie Cooper and a host of other stars, paying $1,800,000 into Uncle Sam's till.

Last minute sales, according to executives in charge of the drive, were expected to push the total over the $3,000,000 mark.

The announcement of the attack, which came on Tuesday night and caused many fires, also revealed that allied planes had raided Candia, in Crete.

There has been no letup in allied aerial operations against Tobruk since the British succeeded in effecting a seaborne landing which resulted in destruction of important enemy installations.

Tobruk is one of the main supply ports for Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's desert forces.

Of the 34 already seized, 25 were Italians and nine Germans.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17.—Eight enemy aliens were held today for questioning after searches last night of the residences of approximately 70 aliens revealed possession of "forbidden articles," FBI Special Agent R. A. Guerin announced.

Heroism Is Revealed In Yorktown Sinking

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17. — America's sorrow at the loss of the carrier Yorktown turned today to pride in the courage of her crew as survivors told of the vessel's sinking June 7 and the calm heroism of the men who made her one of the greatest fighting ships in history.

Surviving crewmen, since transferred to new battle stations, were all alive with praise for "the Old Man," Captain Elliot Buckmaster, the Yorktown's commanding officer. They told how he risked his life to swim from a crowded whaleboat, towing a colored mess attendant who was terrified by the water.

Captain Buckmaster, 53-year-old native of New York, put the colored lad in the only available space in the whaleboat and directed the coxswain to make for the nearest destroyer. Then he swam back to the raft and stayed until the boat returned.

C. E. Calloway of Carrolton, Mo., chief commissary steward, spoke affectionately of the "Old York" and her grim battel to stay afloat after she had taken three Jap torpedoes into her hull.

"She took everything they could throw at us," he said. "They forgot about every other ship and concentrated on us. Even at that, if we'd get one break, just one break the Yorktown would be in a shipyard today."

"Was Like A Dream"

"What happened," said boatswain's mate second class W. S. Kelso of Jackson, Tenn., "Was like a dream—something you imagined. Explosions kept knocking me down. It seemed like every time I got up during the battle I would get knocked flat again."

George P. Breaud, ACMM, Pensacola, Florida said, "We were standing on the flight deck looking for enemy planes, and we saw our fighter combat patrol shooting down attacking planes—we could see enemy planes falling into the sea, dropping in formation, two or three at a time. Word came over the loud speaker, 'Look at 'em hit the deck!'"

"Our fighters made hash out of 'em," Paul Blane Rehlander, La Porte, Indiana, fire controlman second-class, recalled. "The sky was full of burning planes. By the time they got to us, I saw only five planes left. They were all shot up or burning, but they came on in. They came in low."

There were 18 Jap planes in the second attack, according to R. C. Davis, chief boilermaker. "We had 13 fighters in the air at the time, and each fighter brought down one Jap plane," he said. "We could see them splashing in the water as they went down."

"When that down-draft put out our fires, we lost steam," said F. H. Bennett, chief yeoman, Cottage Grove, Oregon. "They were just getting ready to cut in more boilers when the planes came in. If we'd had five minutes more to get up speed, they'd never have hit us. The old man sure could handle that ship. He dodged twelve torpedoes, coming for us in two directions, one time during the Coral Sea fight."

Driver's Clinic Here Next Week

Demonstration Of Safe Driving Methods To Be Presented To Public

RUBBER AND GAS SAVING STRESSED

To teach Lawrence county citizens how they may better further the war effort by learning to conserve gasoline, rubber and lives, a safe drivers clinic, operated by the Pennsylvania motor police and the Department of Revenue, will open in New Castle Monday, Sept. 21.

This was announced today by B. N. Hanlon, secretary of the New Castle Motor club, who said the clinic is being brought to this city under the auspices of the Lawrence County Red Cross motor corps.

The clinic is to be set up in the display room of the J. R. Rick Motor company, 468 East Washington street. During its six-day stay in this city its field activities will be under the personal supervision of both Miss Margaret Bodenstine, executive director of the Red Cross in New Castle, and Mr. Hanlon.

Street Demonstration

In addition to the clinic itself, which tests a driver's potential ability to handle a motor car as well as showing him its most economical method of operation, street demonstrations of quick stopping and rubber waste will take place on Monday evening at eight o'clock and Thursday at four p. m., on North Jefferson street, between North and Falls streets.

"These street demonstrations of quick stopping are proof of the fact that no one can "stop on a dime" and that every time a motorist jams on the brakes he wastes both gasoline and rubber as well as endangering the lives of workers engaged in the war effort," Mr. Hanlon declared.

Chief of Police Mullen has announced that adequote police protection will be taken to insure safety to a large audience, which he expects to witness the street demonstratioons. He stated that all city officials would co-operate with those in charge.

According to representatives of the Department of Revenue, the drivers clinic being brought to New Castle consists of three pieces of laboratory testing equipment as well as two action displays.

The first machine is known as the steerometer and demonstrates hand-eye co-ordination. Here the potential driver is seated before the wheel of an "automobile" and the length of time he is able "to keep his car on the highway" is automatically recorded. He is shown how he wastes tires and gasoline by improper steering.

The next piece of equipment is called a reactometer and tests, to the split second, the length of time it takes to react to danger and "step on the brake". Here, too, is a practical demonstration of potential rubber waste through needless fast stopping.

The last test is a glarometer, and like the steerometer, actual road conditions are simulated, except that in this machine the driver is blinded by glaring headlights and his reaction to this road hazard is automatically recorded.

Mr. Hanlon has announced that the tests are open to the public without charge, and that tests have no effect on anybody's driver's license. He also declared that prizes would be awarded to the persons making the highest scores. The clinic hours are from 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Men With Sea Experience Needed Velker Announces

Able-Bodied Seamen Are Making $300 A Month And Engineers, $450

Drive for the registration of all men with sea experience has begun in New Castle, Pennsylvania, by the United States Employment Service, according to John Velker, Acting Manager of the employment office at New Castle.

"Two thousand new ships now scheduled for production will require 100,000 seamen, radio operators, cooks, engineers and officers to man them," Mr. Velker stated. "Any man who has once been to sea can do his country no greater service than to ship again. This war will be won by the side that 'gets there fastest with the mostest,' and whether that side is our side depends upon the men who sail our ships."

New ships with new comforts, good food, and shore club restricted to the merchant marine await the Victory fleet sailors, Mr. Velker added. Pay has also been greatly increased. Able-bodied seamen are making $300 a month, radio operators $400, engineers $450, cooks $300, and officers even more. In addition, each man receives free life insurance in the amount of $5,000, and disability and personal effects insurance. Hospital service and dental care are also given without charge.

The latest safety devices and fully stocked life boats are reducing the hazards of sailing in wartime, and ■ctically all ships are sailing now in well-protected convoys, it was pointed out.

Men who, during this drive, register their willingness to join the merchant marine again will then be called as needed.

U. S. Aircraft Carrier Yorktown Lost In Battle Of Midway

These dramatic pictures show the attack upon and the sinking of the United States aircraft carrier Yorktown, which was lost off Midway, during the heavy fighting there June 7. The Navy withheld announcement on the Yorktown's loss until now in the belief the enemy did not know he had actually sunk the ship. At left the Yorktown may be seen as she withstood a heavy air attack by bombers and torpedo planes on June 4. Center photo shows the carrier listing after being torpedoed by an enemy submarine on June 7. At right may be seen some of the ship's crew and flight personnel walking with difficulty on the sloping flight deck of the doomed carrier shortly before she sank.

Principals Of County Gather

Discuss Important Measures To Aid In Prosecution Of War By Schools

GO AHEAD WITH BASKETBALL PLANS

Members of the Lawrence County Principals Association discussed several important measures whereby the school children will aid in the prosecution of the war, at the first meeting of the association of the current school year in the office of Superintendent of Schools John C. Syling, Wednesday evening.

One of these will be the collection of scrap. It is hoped to have each school child bring at least five pounds of scrap to school, which will be collected on October 1. If each one does this, Mr. Syling stated, the children alone will be responsible for the collection of 40,000 pounds of scrap.

Another is to encourage the sale of stamps and bonds in the county schools. Each teacher will render a report at the end of each month to Superintendent Syling. One school has already secured a good start, the Wayne township consolidated building having purchased $101 worth of stamps last week, and this week, jumped the total up to $106.

It was voted to go ahead with the basketball schedule as already planned. The number of players taken on a trip to another school will be nine, plus the manager, making ten in all. This will result in the use of only two passenger cars. Use of buses has been banned for this purpose during the war emergency.

Loudon Enrolled For Short Course At State College

John B. Loudon, 213 Northview, is enrolled in the fourth annual short course for motor fleet supervisors now being held on the campus of the Pennsylvania State College. He enrolled in the course as a representative of the Keystone-Lawrence Transfer company.

The course is conducted annually by the college's Institute of Public Safety, of which Amos E. Neyhart, road training specalist, is administrative head, and this year's training is largely devoted to conservation methods in the interest of the war effort.

It Could Be Worse

Food and gasoline rationing? It could be worse. Take the word of Harry W. Flannery, above, CBS war correspondent and author, who is shown with some of the rationing cards he had to have when he was in Berlin. Flannery, now in Hollywood, said he carried rationing cards for meat, fat, eggs, flour, bread, sugar and gasoline. He also had to have a permit to move, to get in public buildings and to ride on Nazi railroads.

NATION'S AIRCRAFT PRODUCTION TO BE TRIPLED NEXT YEAR

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—This nation's aircraft production will triple in value next year compared to 1942, WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson disclosed today.

Testifying before the Tolan labor migration committee, Nelson said:

"In 1939 the value of the aircraft industry's product was $280,000,000. This year it will be $7,600,000,000 and next year will reach the stupendous proportion of $21,000,000,000."

News Briefs From City Hall

City and state motor police today were quizzing one James Como, 19, Volant, R. D. 2, concerning an escapade of early morning when they claim a comrade of Como fled from a car, leaving Como in the vicinity with what was believed by the police to be a stolen V8 motor.

According to Policemen Richards and Thompson, the man with Como attempted to sell the motor, but fled when police arrived. Como did not flee and was charged with suspicion at police headquarters.

He said he knew his companion, who told him "he had found the motor".

Today a Princeton man sent a check to Chief of Police W. G. McMullen on which was inscribed: "Three toots of a horn—three dollars." He had received a tag and this was his method of paying off.

FIVE TO SEVEN MEN BELIEVED KILLED IN BOMB CRASH

(International News Service)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 17.—Five, and possibly seven, men were reported killed today when a U. S. Army bomber crashed into Double Oak mountain, near Birmingham, yesterday.

Army air force officers refused to make any statement concerning the crash stating that names of the men would be released later.

Highway patrol officers yesterday placed the death toll at five but reports today state that seven and possibly more were killed.

Witnesses believed the plane was on a routine training flight and crashed because of poor visibility. This, however, was not confirmed by official army sources.

A six-year-old boy came home from school one day with a note from his teacher in which it was suggested that he be taken out of school as he was "too stupid to learn." His name was Thomas A. Edison.

Robert Olmstead Enlists In Army

Three young men today enlisted in Uncle Sam's army, according to Sergeant John T. Bilpuch, army recruiting officer, who is stationed in the Post Office building.

They ase: Robert M. Olmstead, 411 Fifth street, city, who enlisted in the coast artillery corps. He is a son of Myron Olmstead.

Carl F. Emerich, 2011 Carlyn avenue, Farrell, who enlisted in the air corps as an auto mechanic (specialist).

Danny Como, Volant, R. D. 2, He enlisted, unassigned.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The bums of Brooklyn may not win the 1942 National League pennant but they have a chip on their shoulders as big as a flagpole and the bright torch of hope still burns brightly at Ebbets Field.

The Bums proved that yesterday when, after Dixie Walker and Mickey Owen, their tempers razor sharp, vaulted into a field box to join a free-for-all between four fans and a trio of ushers, they carried the fight out onto the diamond and belted the stuffing out of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10 to 3. Because the St. Louis Cardinals also won, from Boston 6-2, there is no change in the pennant standing today.

Bums Fighting Mad

The Cards are still out in front by two full games but the news is out that the Dodgers have woke up at last, are fighting mad and won't hand the flag over to Manager Billy Southworth and his Hirelings without a real fight.

Until yesterday it appeared that's just what the Bums were going to do. They had lost five in a row, were hitting like amateurs and were a badly disillusioned group of athletes.

They came back to Ebbets Field, however, after two days to think over their dissipated baseball lives, determined to make a fresh, although late start. Just before the game, four fans presumably seeking autographs, entered a field box and started to call to the players. An usher asked them for their tickets and when they failed to produce them, asked them to leave.

One word led to another and then a battle started. Two other ushers joined the fray but, as the consensus version goes, the fans were getting rough and Walker and Mickey Owen vaulted into the box to see that no harm came to their fellow employees.

A merry time ensued in which Walker bruised his hand; Owen had his nose bloodied and the three fans got quite a lacing. They were arrested and booked on charges of assault and disorderly conduct. They insisted to the police they were members of a Brooklyn social club who merely wanted to have some photos autographed.

When the game finally got under way the Dodgers lost no time sailing into Harry Gornicki. Dolf Camilli, who slamed out his 23rd and 24th homers, poled the first of these over the right field fence in the first inning, to feature a three run drive.

Walker came up with four hits for a perfect day and Camilli's second homer, in the eighth inning, was the climax blow of a game which saw the veteran Whitlow Wyatt earn his 18th triumph of the year.

Southpaw Ernie White saw to it that the Cards didn't lose any ground in Boston. Holding the Braves in check in all but the sixth inning White rode to victory behind a four run rally by his mates which handed Jim Tobin his 20th setback of the season.

Singles by Walker and Slaughter; Musial's double, Cooper's single and a couple of Boston errors led to the Cards' quartet of tallies in the sixth and the ball game.

Reds Extend Streak

In the other National League games the Cincinnati Reds won their sixth straight, beating the Giants 3-1, and the Chicago Cubs and the Phillies split a twin bill. The Phils won the first, 3-1, and the Cubs the second, 4-1.

In the American League, after pitching seven hitless innings, Marvin Breuer of the Yankees had a no hitter spoiled but set down the Detroit Tigers 5-1.

Edgar Smith of the White Sox suffered his 20th setback, when the Athletics beat him, 4 to 2 and in other games Cleveland beat Washington 5-1 and St. Louis blanked Boston 3-0.

With the National and American league schedules practically at an end and the world series just around the corner, an ex-baseball player and comedian of the diamond has felt the blow of war. He intends to retire and open a cafe, where, no doubt, instead of performing antics, he will see others stage them. He is Al Schacht, clown prince of the national pastime. Tire and gas restrictions forced his move, he stated today in New York City.

Carroll Bierman, veteran jockey, will ride Alsab in the match race with Whirlaway Saturday, at Narragansett park. Bierman was up on Alsab when the 3-year-old won the Champagne stakes at Belmont park last fall when the colt set a new record for 2-year-olds with a 1:35 25 for the mile.

Ted Williams and Pesky of the Red Sox are one-two in the Big Six hitting race with .354 and .338, respectively. Lombardi of the Braves is third with .332; Spence of the Senators, fourth with .328, and Reiser of the Dodgers and Musial of the Cardinals, fifth and sixth, respectively, with .321 and .316.

Bessemer Squad Packed With Vets

"Cement City" Gridsters Open With Greenville, Saturday, Away From Home

Bulwarked by nine starters from the 1941 combination, Bessemer high looms as one of the classiest Class B outfits in the district.

As the "Cementers" gird for Saturday afternoon's opener with tough Greenville high in Greenville, optimism seems to fill the air.

Besides the nine regulars, five other gridders won insignias, thus rounding out a squad that is blessed with experience.

Coach Joseph Weresuk, who took over the reigns when A. G. Capezzutti accepted the East Liverpool high job, is working diligently in hopes of rounding out a smooth operating eleven.

In view of the fact that the ex-Shenango Township and Slippery Rock star stepped into the guiding seat on a minute's notice, his task is huge and studded with problems.

Bessemer's starting team will likely lineup in the following manner, Saturday.

Grubisa Fast

Pishcuneri and List at ends; Simari and Novad at tackles; Gatto and Kairo at guards; Kresevich at center; Grubisa and Dick Navarra at halfbacks; Miller, fullback and Bob Navarra, quarterback.

Jack Grubisa heads a rather talented group of pigskin carriers. Grubisa is one of the fastest athletes ever to don Bessemer's colors.

"Subs," who have been showing up well in drills, are Anderson, guard; Ash, fullback; B. Navarra, end; Johnson, end; Lagnese, fullback; Headgore, center; Hammers, guard, and Campbell, guard.

Bucking up against Greenville in the opener, Bessemer confronts an out-of-their-class opponent, a foe which held Farrell to a 7-0 count last week.

City-County Loop Will Meet Tonight

Plans for the City-County Independent Basebal league championship series will be outlined during a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in Carm's, 112 West Washington street.

The series, to be played between St. Margaret's and the Rex A. C., starts Sunday.

Grid Nuggets

(International News Service)

HERSHEY, Pa., Sept. 17—Another scrimmage drill between the University of Pennsylvania's "A" and "B" gridiron squads loomed today in the wake of a highly successful workout yesterday. Bill Miller highlighted the first game with a 34-yard gallop for a touchdown on an off-tackle smash through the "B" squad.

Philadelphia—Temple's Coach Ray Morrison today conceded he was considering the possibility of putting an unheralded sophomore, Bob Polidor, into the backfield when the Owls meet Georgetown next week. In last week-end's drills at Annapolis, Polidor made four runs of 40 yards or better.

New York—Steve Filipowicz, veteran Fordham fullback, is headed for the best year of his career, in the opinion of observers who yesterday saw him make a 45-yard run for the first tally in scrimmage between varsity and reserve teams.

Jesse Gunn Is Hurt In Wednesday Drills

Youngstown East Tussle At Taggart Stadium Friday Night Starts At 8:15; Fullback Is Jinx Position; Lengthy Scrimmage Held Yesterday; Advance Sale indicates Full-House; Bleacher Ticket Setup Is Changed; Visitors To Ride Skylanes.

Fullback apparently is New Castle high's jinx position this season.

Since the opening of maneuvers, back in the tailend of August, Coach Phil Bridenbaugh has spent hours endeavoring to fill the slot. Suddenly, Elkins Brothers, ex-Washington star, filled the bill.

In Friday's victorious opener, the colored athlete suffered a torn ligament in his left knee cap and will be lost for about five weeks. The coach again set out to find a replacement for the important post.

Jesse Gunn, rugged, big and speedy lineman, was given a trial and caused a lot of eye-brow lifting with his finesse.

Injures Fingers

Wednesday afternoon, as the "Canes" marched through a lengthy scrimmage in preparation for Friday's home date with Youngstown East at 8:15 o'clock, Gunn was sidelined by injury.

In thundering through the wall on the outskirts of the second team goal line, Gunn hurt the third finger of his right hand and was forced to watch the battering from the side.

Coach Bridenbaugh scratched his head, smiled and called in Teddy Lash and Eddie Jacobs, a pair of excellent prospects. Lash, who packs height, ruggedness and pressure in his 175 pounds or thereabouts frame, showed up fairly well. Jacobs is small but mighty, cracking through the frontier wall like a battering ram.

At the close of the session, Gunn's name was placed on the doubtful starting role. Even if he gets into the fray, the injury figures to hamper his glossy play.

As if this wasn't enough to make a coach tear off his shirt, John Zubkowsky, who was injured in preseason exercises, was another spectator. The tall wingman, ailing with a left elbow swelling, reported that the joint is paining him. He donned moleskin but did not participate in the bruising drills.

Patched Up Lineup

The injury bugaboo may force the "Hurricane" to field a patched up lineup. Sam Ciccone will take the left end station if big "Zub" is unable to start. Mike Roussos and Tony Razzano will drop into the tackle berths and Joe Joseph and Tom Sanfilippo are carded for varsity guard duty. Dave Genkinger has been assigned the center chores.

The ball trucking department will be headed by Bob Lee and Russ Currie at halfbacks, Pete Tedesko at the quarterback spot and Teddy Lash in fullback—that is, if Gunn is unable to play.

Before getting their heads into the shoulder pads for the "p. m." game with the seconds, the varsity crew marched through another gruelling session, practicing line charging, blocking and tackling.

Aside from Brothers, Zubkowsky and Gunn, the local squad is in fine fettle for the No. 2 brawl.

The "Canes" go through their final rehearsal tonight under the bulbs.

With five veterans on hand, Coach Dick Barrett is molding together a doughty Youngstown East eleven. Pre-season drills indicate that the Ohioans figure to be one of the toughest aggregations in Youngstown.

As in past seasons, East will resort to passes in hopes of downing the Lawrence countians.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner today reported a change in the ticket selling setup. Because of the federal tax law, ducats for all bleacher seats, save the kiddies' section, will be sold at the Cunningham avenue booth.

"I'd like to emphasize, so as to prevent inconvenience on the part of fans, that tickets for all bleacher seats, excepting the kids' section, will be on sale only at the Cunningham avenue booth. Because of the federal tax law, we are forced to maintain only one booth for these tickets," Gardner said.

Ticket Manager Robert Mills announced that from now on, the ticket sale at the Sporting Goods store will start at noon and close at 5 o'clock.

With any kind of a smile from the weatherman, the stadium will be jammed, the advance sale indicates. For this reason, you'd better get 'em early if you contemplate witnessing the attraction.

MUSTO-SAVOLD BRAWL TONIGHT

The two met in Washington a few weeks ago and Musto emerged victorious.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Between now and the afternoon of Oct. 12, 1942 A. D. the cash customers will read approximately 3,897,642 words of analysis, opinion, advice and prophecy on just what will happen when Pvt. Billy Conn climbs through the ropes to make his second bid for the heavyweight title of Sgt. Joe Louis.

The experts will be pretty nearly evenly divided, we think. Half of them will say the younger, fresher and faster Conn will not make any mistakes this time and will outpoint Sergeant Joe to win the title. The others will stick by Louis who doesn't make a habit of fooling around with guys the second time, and will predict the Brown Bomber will knock Billy The Kid kicking within four or five heats.

A man named Julian Black, who happens to be one of Sgt. Louis' managers (we have the darnest time trying to remember to make that Sgt. instead of plain Joe Louis) isn't interested in any theories of the experts. He has a definite idea about this fight, and we thought you might like to hear it.

Won't Fool Around

"Joe isn't going to take any chances of having what happened a year ago, happen again," said Julian. "We're going to train for this one with the accent on speed. Joe will be at Greenwood lake this week and will probably box for the first time on Saturday or Sunday. He needs plenty of work and we're going to try and get him a couple of light and fast boys in addition to a couple of fellows to mix it up with."

Black admitted that the problem of getting proper sparring partners is by no means an easy one. Ever since Joe went into training for his fight with Jimmy Braddock in 1937, the best workman he had at camp has been big George Nicholson, a rugged colored boy from Yonkers, N. Y.

Like so many others, George is now in the army and it is not certain whether he will be given a furlough to work with the sarge. "We've made overtures to the army about getting Nicholson," said Black, "but we haven't heard anything. If we don't get him, Joe will certainly miss him but we still have hopes."

Black said he would probably get George Fitch, another boy who has worked with the champion, but had another problem. Fitch is working in a defense plant and there's no guarantee he can get time off either!

That's the training setup as far as it's gone for the champion. As far as Conn is concerned the problem of spar-mates is of no importance. Billy could work out with a group of gorillas or chorus boys and still accomplish about the same thing.

Billy is strictly a speed worker and practices all his punching on big sandbags—not big lugs, so he doesn't have to worry.

Neither Has Edge

There's one thing unanimous about this fight, however, and that is neither of the boys will have a big advantage. Both of them went into the service about the same time and this won't be one of those things in which a non-army guy will be credited with having an edge in condition over a boy in the service.

Conn went into the army about two months after Joe, who enlisted on Jan. 10 and has gone through almost the same routine. He is heavier and so is Joe. Billy says he weights about 185 and should weight about 180 for the fight. Louis is in the neighbornood of 218 and will be about 205 if he gets in condition.

That, from what Black says, looks like a pretty large "if".

It would be strange at that, wouldn't it if one of the greatest champions you or I could ever hope to see, should lose his title—in his training camp?

Bulldogs Emerge With Stirring 27-7 Win; Coach Odell Pleased

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 17.—Yale's Coach Howie Odell found out what he wanted to know from the practice game which his eleven played yesterday with the Columbia Lions. The Bulldogs beat the New Yorkers 27 to 7.

Far from disappointed also was Head Coach Lou Little of Columbia who, admitting that his men played poorly, today is taking steps to correct the faults.

Ted Hoopes scored two touchdowns and Hugh Knowlton one for the Bulldogs. The final score was made by Gil Blake, who is not on the varsity team but was thrown into play during the test game.

Columbia's only score was made by Fitzpatrick.

Eastern Army Stars Defeat Grid Dodgers

International News Service

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 17.—Encouraged by their 13 to 7 defeat of the Brooklyn football Dodgers, the Eastern Army All-Stars today were ready for their big test—their clash this coming Sunday with the Chicago Bears in Boston.

The early periods of their night game with the Dodgers looked bad for the soldiers and it was not until the fourth quarter that they got up scoring steam. Then they made two goals in rapid succession, converting the first for the extra point.

The Dodgers, under the guidance of Coach Mike Getto, decisively outplayed the All-Stars in the early part of the game, never permitting a single soldier to get past the 35 yard line. In the first half, the Dodgers made eight first downs to the Army's one.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Thursday sports reel:—

Date-lined London, September 10, INS released a stick about a rowing race. Disregarding an air raid alert and bursts of anti-aircraft fire, thousands gathered along the banks of the Thames to witness the spectacle, the item read. . . .

Pvt. Dale H. Clobus sat at the bow of the U. S. Army Air Force crew which was defeated by the Metropolitan Police rowers. Clobus, 22, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clobus, of 1509 Delaware avenue. He was graduated from New Castle high in 1939. . . .

The column switch-puller expresses appreciation to Johnny Kraft and T. E. Beck. A pair of former New Castleites who took time out to call my attention to the story. Beck and Kraft are now New Yorkers. . . .

A plum figure, now in the heavyweight division, looked on intently as New Castle high drilled the other day. Investigation revealed that the onlooker was Tony Ostrosky, a great end (1926-29). The ex-high gridder, a Cleveland resident, is vacationing here. . . .

Morris-Harvey's grid roster em-braces the name of John Kulnis. The local athlete, who quit a line post for a backfield berth during his farewell year at New Castle high, was and still is a hot grid tomale. . . .

Three bells to the Newark Bears, International League pennant winners. The Yankee farm team voted a share of their earnings to Mrs. Walter Stewart. The athlete, a right-handed twirler, passed on in May. . . .

A few big name schools uncloak Saturday. Major battles pair Clemson-Presbyterian; Iowa-North Dakota State; Kansas-Iowa Navy; Kentucky-Georgia; North Carolina State-Davidson; V. P. I. Catawba; Wm. & Mary-Hampden-Sydney and Wisconsin-Camp Grant. . . .

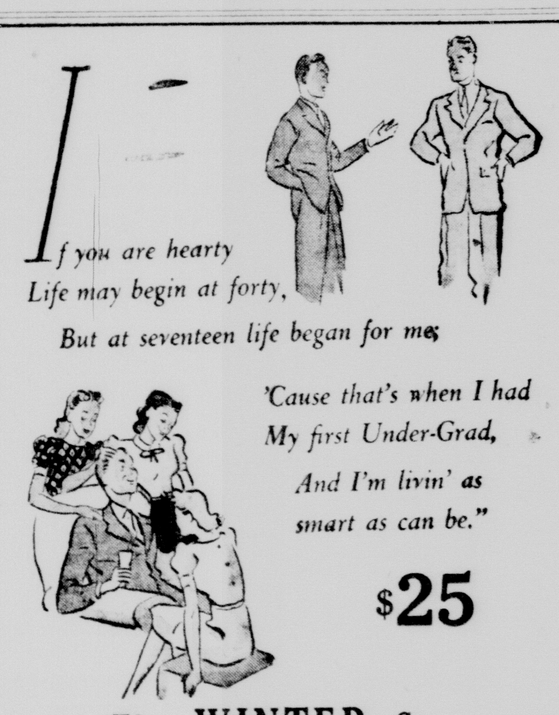

To accumulate the close to a half million frogskins, Whirlaway has won 27 out of 49 turf races. . . . The New York Yankees, who are supposed to be a team with a lot of guys named Joe when confronted by left-handed twirlers, have managed to beat 21 out of 32 portsiders so far.

List Places For Scrap Deposits In Union Township

Chairman Reynolds Announces Places Where Scrap Can Be Left By Citizens

Places where scrap iron, rubber, and other metals vital to the war industry can be left, have been selected by Chairman H. M. Reynolds. In cases where people have a half-ton or more of scrap or some article which cannot be moved handily, if he is notified, a truck will pick up the materials.

It is hoped to have signs ready to be placed at the locations in the near future, but folks can dump their scrap there in the meantime, as the locations can easily be identified.

The sites, are: Sunny avenue school, Oakland district; township tool house on Route 422, in second voting precinct; and in a field at the Jennie Curtis property at the Harbor Bridge.

Money raised from the sale of this scrap will be used in the purchase of necessary O.C.D. equipment, unless the donor requests it be turned back to him, Reynolds states.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of O. C. D. Workers Are Outlined In This Column

Third ward auxiliary firemen today submitted a notice as follows: At the weekly meeting, held in the central fire station Phil Winters, Howard McQuiston and Edward Milliken were elected group captains with James Snow and Glenn Carrigan as president and vice president of the body. Harold Wright was named secretary-treasurer. Meetings will be held at 8 p. m. each Tuesday. Membership is welcomed.

City Director D. O. Davies today has a notice issued by State Director of Defense A. C. Marts, which in effect says that "state and municipal police, while in their own uniforms and on duty, need not display additional identification means during an air raid attack or drill."

Police in civilian clothes, enroute report, will be given identification means of passing them through air raid lines. They will be provided with blue bordered identification cards and auxiliary police arm bands of the Citizens Defense corps. They are to be issued on certification by the police chief, wtihout training as prescribed for volunteers in the Citizens Defense corps. Each should have a copy of the State Council of Defense basic manual of training.

In extreme emergencies, involving situations where it would be impossible to display an arm band, air raid wardens will recognize the blue bordered identification card as authority to pass the state or municipal policemen through lines. Except in extreme emergencies policemen required to move about outdoors during an air raid attack or drill while dressed in civilian clothes are requested to keep the auxiliary police arm band and identification card at hand at all times and to display them during the attack or drill.

Victims Of Fall Still In Bad Shape

Both William Wanstreet, fo Wierton, W. They fell 65 feet from the roof of a building on September 1.

Wanstreet, the worst injured of the two, is still in a critical condition, the hospital reports show, while Schultz had a restless night last night, and is still in a serious condition.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT . . . all girls who were hostesses for the Marine Day Activities of July 18th are requested to attend a very important meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Friday evening at 7:30 . . . The Marine Corps League Attachment is calling this meeting . . . They promise that the meeting will not be long and that it's very important each girl who attended the Marine Day Activities be present. Cecil Suber, Franklin Blanning and Bryan Minner will be in charge of the meeting. We hope that all the young ladies will take note and attend.

Here is an idea that should have been worked out long ago. Why not a Honor Roll with all the names of those who have departed from this city enscribed thereon and have this Honor Roll established on the Diamond? A very inexpensive case could be made . . . how about it. Some civic organization could take this up and really do a splendid job.

* * *

For sometime now the city fathers have been talking about testing sirens here and there . . . don't you think it's about time to stop testing and do some buying. The city and county OCD should get together and make an agreement . . . If we are not mistaken (correct us if we are) there is 25,000 dollars at the Court House ear-marked for OCD expenses in Lawrence County. Let's see some action on the siren situation . . . IT CAN HAPPEN HERE . . . let's have some warning.

* * *

The money that was raised by the Boxing-Bombing Show last summer should not in our opinion be used to purchase equipment such as warning signals . . . this money should be used to furnish equipment for various OCD groups in the city . . . A whistle for Air Raid Wardens, First Aid Kits or Fire Fighting equipment for the OCD fire fighters. There are some mighty important items needed and the general population contributed to this fund and at the time the fund was raised it was explained that the money would be used to equip OCD members in some way.

The Civilian Defense Show Saturday night should be the date that you have in mind. It's FREE but that shouldn't keep you away. See your Wardens at work. Talk to your friends and make up a party for Saturday night at the Stadium.

According to police reports, the accident occurred at 11:20 o'clock last night on Wiley Hill at the intersection of Summitt avenue. There is an extremely dangerous curve at that point, and police said that Hodge, who was driving a 1936 Ford coupe, failed to make the bend, crashing into the emoankment. Tons Of Scrap Metal Being Collected Here

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 17.—The local house to house scrap drive is bringing in tons and tons of good scrap for the open hearth steel furnaces so that the production of tanks, planes, ships and guns will not slow up.

Daze McCarter, local scrap dealer informed the local salvage committee yesterday that he picked up 16 tons.

Victory will be made from steel and right now we have only a two weeks supply of scrap at the steel mills. With winter coming on, it will mean much less supply on hand.

That broken piece of metal that you turn in may be the whole answer to victory or defeat. It may be the answer to have one extra plane at the right place at the right time. It may be into a helmet that saves some loved one in battle. Be sure to round up all the scrap you have and get it into the fight.

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 17.—The first actual cash donation for the newly proposed Emergency Hospital here in Ellwood City was turned in yesterday by Dr. H. E. Helling when he sent in a check to the Chamber of Commerce for $1,000. No campaign has been outlined for the raising of funds to construct this greatly needed emergency addition to the local hospital as the hospital board of directors have not as yet discussed or approved the project.

The Chamber hospital committee is confident that the needed amount of money to construct the additional hospital here can be raised. Ellwood To Play Farrell Friday

Mercer Countains To Bring Big Team Here For Ellwood's First Hard Game

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 17.—Ellwood high school's football machine faces its first hard test Friday night when they will be hosts at Lincoln field to Farrell high school.

Coach Thurman F. Croft is expecting a mighty hard battle and isn't at all sure who is going to come out on top. Farrell, coached by Hank Day, former W. and J. mentor, opened the season last week by downing Greenville high by a 6-0 score.

Farrell has a big team with a line that averages 170 pounds, and in the backfield they have a two hundred pounder, Jim Basilone.

Ellwood is in good condition for the game, and Dudick is expected to be back in the line for a part of the game. He has been suffering from an injured ankle for some time. Slowness and a weak passing attack and defense are the problems that worry Croft the most, otherwise, he thinks that the team is making fine progress.

Coach Croft is considerably disturbed and regrets very much the uncurrent of dissatisfaction caused among the players by the public criticism made by a group of fans concerning the outfits being worn by the team. Faced with the loss of many valuable players by graduation, and with other outstanding members having joined the armed forces and industrial plants, Croft feels that he is having a difficult enough time to mold a team without having his work upset by outsiders.

It is true that new uniforms were not bought this year, new jerseys having been substituted. Croft said the jerseys are the same as those worn by Pitt teams, the only difference being the Pittsburgh team has many more of them. The team will look much better on the field when the weather permits the use of their red, white and blue jerseys.

The coach attaches far more importance to protective accessories than to showy outfits, stating that teams are made on the practice field and not in sixty minutes of public play. It can be pointed out that the squads he has coached here in five years have been comparatively free of injuries.

This year the first fifteen men were provided with new shoulder pads, thigh guards, rib pads, practice pants, shoes, socks and jerseys. Eighteen players received new headgears. This year the school has spent the sum of $2,074 for protective equipment.

The money in the athletic fund is owed and plenty more for the field's lighting equipment and new bleachers, installed last year at a cost of $8,500. Croft said he would much rather have that debt cleared than pay a large sum for new uniforms, pointing out that it is almost a certainty that boys of 18 and 19 will be drafted before another year which may cause high schools to drop football for the duration.

Football supporters should remember that in his five years' stay here, Coach Croft has produced annually teams that led the Beaver Valley, a feat that Ellwood was unable to accomplish for a decade prior to his coming. Prospects for this year's team are average, and respecting Croft's past record they will probably be up near the top at the end of the season; therefore it is the opinion of many people that the public should do everything possible to support him rather than cause unrest and dissatisfaction among the players.

Slippery Rock Society Meets

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 17—When members of the Women's Missionary society of the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church gathered on Wednesday, it was planned to have the annual praise service at the Sunday morning service.

EXAMINE ALL STORED GRAIN FOR WEEVILS

Stored grain should be examined at short intervals during September and October.

If the grain shows signs of heating or if insects are in the grain, it should be fumigated immediately. The fumigant is effective while temperatures still are high. When the temperatures get low the fumigant is ineffective and much grain may be destroyed. Do not fumigate after outside temperatures drop below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

A mimeographed circular on fumigation of stored grains may be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Office in the Post Office Building.

REPORT GIVEN ON SEXED AND NON-SEXED CHICKS

A report from the poultry extension department of Utah State College shows the results of the comparative records for sexed and non-sexed chicks for seven reasons and the figures on loss by death and number of cockerels produced from these chicks.

Over the 7-year period records were obtained on 168 flocks of non-sexed chicks that averaged 1,365 chicks per flock. The death loss of these flocks averaged 6.7 per cent, and 49.4 per cent of the straight-run chicks purchased proved to be cockerels.

There were 154 flocks of sexed pullet chicks that averaged 703 chicks per flock and the average mortality for the 7-year period was 6.9 per cent. The average number of cockerels among the sexed pullets was 3.3 per cent. These figures show that the poultry growers purchased good quality chicks and reared them well, because the average mortality of both groups was low and there was practically no difference between the straight-run and the sexed chicks.

Snice 49.4 per cent of the straight-run chicks were cockerels, these figures again prove that as a whole the sexes in chicks as hatched are about fifty-fifty. Carl Frischknecht, extension poultryman in Utah, also commented that since only 49.4 per cent of the straight-run chicks were cockerels, it is evidence that it is not the practice of hatcheries to mix sexed male chicks with any of the straight-run chicks.

DAIRY CATTLE FEEDING SUGGESTIONS

Many cows drop in both milk production and flesh during the fall months. They will then go into winter production at a lower level which will be impossible to build up again. As a result, there will be a loss to both the dairyman and to the government which still needs milk in those sections where it can be handled for lend-lease purposes.

There are several steps which can be taken to prevent the drop in production:

1. Feed dry hay daily. Even though pastures are good and the grass plentiful, the feeding of dry hay pays. Cows have a craving for dry hay, and it is one of the best supplements to pasture.

2. Start feeding silage as soon as the silos are filled. This will supplement the pasture and help to add that extra feed the cows need during the early fall months.

3. Feed grain. The ratio of feed prices to milk prices still is good and grain feeding pays. The amount of grain to feed will depend upon the quality and amount of roughage available, the breed of cows, and the amount of milk each cow produces. It will vary from 1 pound of grain for 3 pounds of milk to 1 pound of grain for 5 pounds of milk daily.

FERTILIZE GRASS NOW TO GET BEST RESULTS

September is the best time to give the lawn, athletic field, or golf fairway a shot of fertilizer. This treatment will brighten up the grass, send it into the winter with a good, vigorous growth of top and root, and help it to compete with the crabgrass and weeds next spring. Grass naturally does best during the cool, moist fall days.

Ordinarily a complete fertilizer is recommended for lawn grasses. This fall, however, because of war needs the mineral sources of nitrogen, such as sulfate of ammonia and nitrate of soda, will not be obtainable. Phosphate and potash fertilizers still are obtainable. They will help the grass and stimulate the white clover.

Where there is plenty of clover to supply its own nitrogen and some to spare for the grasses, no nitrogen fertilizer may be necessary. Some fertilizer nitrogen, however, will give some lawns the stimulant they need. Fortunately, nitrogen for lawns can be gotten in the form of prepared sewage sludge, dried manures, and cottonseed or soybean meal. The latter two kinds often are recommended mixed with an equal weight of complete fertilizer and the mixture applied at the rate of 20 to 30 pounds per thousand square feet.

Since the nitrogenous complete fertilizer is unavailable, the best plan may be to mix 100 pounds of cottonseed or soybean meal with 100 pounds of 0-14-7 or similar phosphate and potash mixture. If the lawn is poor and dull in color, 200 pounds of the meal to 100 pounds of fertilizer may be used and the mixture applied 30 to 40 pounds per thousand square feet.

The meal carries about as much nitrogen as the usual complete lawn fertilizer ,but it is not in so quickly soluble or available form. Consequently, somewhat more may be needed and the full effect may not be so marked. Grass well fertilized with such a mixture this month, however, should need little or no additional treatment in the spring, since the meal will continue to give up its nitrogen over a much longer period and little or none of it will be lost.

If the lawn needs lime, and many which have not been limed recently need it badly, fall is an excellent time to apply it at the rate of about 50 pounds of hydrated lime or ground limestone per thousand square feet. The lime, phosphate, and potash will stimulate the growth and spread of the little white clover which is almost always present. Except on athletic fields, where its slippery nature is objectionable, a white clover lawn which needs no nitrogen may be increasingly desirable if the nitrogen shortage continues.

Fall also is the best time to seed the new lawn or to renovate an old one. All of the essential information is continued in a mimeographed circular on "Care of the Home Lawn, Fall Program," available from the Agricultural Extension office in New Castle, Pa.

HOW TO STOP HESSIAN FLY DAMAGE

The spring brood of the Hessian fly caused extensive damage in wheat fields just before harvest. In some early planted fields the crop was harvested with much difficulty because of an almost complete breaking down of the straw. In other places the spring brood flies scattered over wheat fields and produced a rather high rate of infestation, but the actual loss from fallen straw was not large.

Favorable weather conditions in the early spring for emergence, egg laying and development of maggots were responsible for this condition. The temperature and moisture conditions during August were well suited to the emergence of large numbers of flies from the flaxseeds now on wheat stubble.

Late-sown wheat will have little or no infestation, since most of the flies come out and disappear before the wheat is planted.

A safe sowing date to avoid Hessian fly damage has been determined for the county. The average date for Lawrence county is September 28.

This and other facts on the Hessian fly are available in a new mimeograph prepared by the Agricultural Extension Service of the Pennsylvania State College, which can be obtained from the Agricultural Extension office.

New Coveralls for War Workers

Femininity has not been sacrificed at the Sperry Gyroscope plant in New York City. Here are three of the girl workers on their way to their benches dressed in streamlined coveralls that are exceptionally becoming and yet completely practical. The coveralls were the results of months of experimentation to find garments that were both attractive and fit for work. The girls made many suggestions that were accepted by the designers of the garment. (Central Press)

Volunteers For Red Cross Work Abroad Wanted

Red Cross Commissioner In England Says Large Number Needed

By KATHLEEN HARRIMAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—An appeal for women volunteers from the United States to participate in the work the American Red Cross is doing for American troops stationed in the British Isles was voiced Wednesday by Harvey Gibson, New York financier and American Red Cross commissioner in England.

In an exclusive interview with this correspondent, Gibson disclosed that many women—particularly older ones—are needed and that transportation is ready for them if they will come to England to help.

"The lack of American women volunteers," he said, "threatens seriously to impede the work of the American Red Cross in England.

"We need three times the number of women we now have. There must be a flow of women volunteers to help run Red Cross clubs and handle recreational activities. The tide of volunteers is much too slow for the rapidly expanding Red Cross program in England.

"The ever-growing number of troops arriving in London and other cities on leave flock Red Cross clubs for room and board. More clubs are need in port towns and on isolated sites. Twenty-two already are in existence.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Falls killed 25,400 persons in the United States last year.

This totalled one-fourth of all accidental deaths in 1941.

The greatest number of fatal falls occur in the home.

There were 15,750 such home accidents last year.

Persons over 65 years of age contributed 84 per cent of them.

Houses should be planned and furnished to prevent falls.

Stairs should be clear of all obstructions and well lighted.

The bottom step should be painted white so all may see it.

Highly polished floors with sliding rugs cause many falls.

Falls in the bathtub are painful and frequently fatal.

Many persons open what they think is a door into a room.

Then they fall as they miss the top of the stairs.
